Breast Cancer: When Will It Creep Up Again?

By Lawrence Carter

The first time she was identified as a cancer patient, the woman was just 28 years old. She had a lump in her breast, which grew rapidly and caused discomfort. She was diagnosed with breast cancer. The treatment was successful, and she went into remission for several years. However, after a few years of remission, the lump returned. She was diagnosed with breast cancer again, and the treatment was again successful. She went into remission for several years. However, after a few more years, the lump returned again. She was diagnosed with breast cancer for the third time, and this time the treatment was not successful. The cancer spread to her liver and lungs, and despite all efforts to treat it, she passed away a few months later. The woman was just 36 years old at the time of her death. The story is not uncommon. Breast cancer is a common disease, and many women are diagnosed with it at a young age. The disease can be treated successfully in many cases, but unfortunately, in some cases, the cancer returns and becomes harder to treat. The causes of breast cancer are not fully understood, but it is known that certain factors such as genetics, estrogen levels, and lifestyle factors can increase the risk of developing the disease. It is important to be aware of the symptoms of breast cancer and to seek medical attention if any of them are present. Early detection and treatment can increase the chances of survival.

Home Runs Power Yanks To 3-1 Win Over Chicago

By United Press International

The New York Yankees scored three home runs off Chicago White Sox pitching in their 5-1 victory. The Yankees, who have won six of their last seven games, opened up a three-game series against the White Sox at Wrigley Field Wednesday night.

The Yankees' home run total was led by Reggie Jackson, who hit a three-run shot in the second inning. Jackson, who has been mired in a slump for much of the season, has now hit six home runs in his last 10 games.

Tigers Appear Set To Turn Corner This Fall

By John Murray

The Detroit Tigers, who have struggled mightily this season, are showing signs of turning a corner in their quest for a playoff berth. The Tigers, who have won two of their last three games, have been playing much better defense and have been getting more timely offense.

The Tigers' offense has been led by third baseman Ron LeFlore, who has been hitting well and providing protection for the rest of the lineup. The Tigers' pitching has also been improving, with left-hander Dave Rozema coming off a strong start against the Indians.

Cubs Against DH Rule In NL

The Chicago Cubs will soon adopt a designated hitter rule for their National League games. The rule will be implemented for the 1982 season and will allow the Cubs to use a designated hitter in place of a pinch-hitter or pinch-runner.

The Cubs are one of the few teams in the NL to use the designated hitter, which is a rule that was adopted in the American League in 1973. The Cubs have used the designated hitter in games against teams in the AL, but they have not used it in NL games.

Jack Nicklaus and "Old Friend"

By Bob Davis

Jack Nicklaus, the greatest golfer of his generation, recently reunited with an old friend from his days as a junior golfer. Nicklaus and his "old friend" played together in a charity golf tournament, which was held to raise money for a local children's hospital.

Nicklaus and his "old friend" have been close friends since their days playing together as juniors. They have continued to compete against each other in golf tournaments throughout their careers.

Poof! Webster Disappears From Seahawk camp

By Maryanne Fields

Seattle Seahawks coach Don Marchetti said Friday morning that tight end Todd Webster has disappeared from the team's headquarters. Webster, who is in his first season with the Seahawks, has not been seen since Thursday night.

"We've been trying to reach Todd all morning," Marchetti said. "We're really concerned about this. He's a guy who has been with us since last year, and we just want to make sure he's okay.

Iowa Edges 89ers

By Steve Garvey

The Iowa Hawkeyes edged the 89ers in a close game, winning 7-6. Iowa's offense was led by third baseman Tim Raines, who had three hits, including a key two-run home run in the fifth inning.

New York Mets pitcher Tom Seaver pitched a complete game, allowing only two runs on five hits.

Weaver May Be Headed For Mets

By Mike Greenberg

New York Mets pitcher Tom Seaver, who has been dealing with a elbow injury, may be headed to the Mets. The Mets have been in talks with Seaver's agent, Bob Myers, about a possible trade for the three-time Cy Young Award winner.

The Mets are in the market for a starting pitcher, and Seaver could provide an upgrade to their rotation. He is currently on the disabled list with a strained elbow, but he has shown signs of improving in recent days.

Sport Parade

By Mike Greenberg

The New York Mets have announced a parade to celebrate the team's World Series victory. The parade will take place on Tuesday afternoon, and will feature the Mets' entire roster, including manager Tom Seaver.

The parade will start at the Polo Grounds and end at Yankee Stadium, where the Mets will hold a victory celebration. Fans are encouraged to line the route to show their support for the team.

"We're excited to have this opportunity to thank our fans for their support this season," said Mets general manager John Cashman. "This parade will be a celebration of our team and our city."
Dow Jones Continues Climb

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Dow Jones index of industrial stocks closed at 1,771 on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday, a gain of seven points from Monday's close of 1,764. The index is now at its highest level in five years. The Federal Reserve Board raised interest rates again, but the effect on the stock market was minimal. The increase in interest rates is seen as a way to curb inflation. Economists believe the market is becoming more sensitive to monetary policy changes.

Marines from Camp Pendleton, Calif., soon will be moving into the new, $7 million, 283-bed hospital that is under construction in the city of Oceanside. The hospital, which is to be completed in late 1992, will be the first to be built in the city’s history.

"It’s been a long time coming," said Mayor Martin Doudt. "We’ve been waiting for this hospital for a long time. It’s been a waiting game." The city has been without a hospital since the old one was destroyed by fire in 1931.

The new hospital will house a 283-bed facility, including a 200-bed emergency room, a 100-bed surgery center, and a 100-bed rehabilitation center. It will also include a 100-bed nursing home and a 100-bed assisted living facility.

The hospital is being built by a joint venture of Martin-Doudt and Johnson, a local construction company. The project is expected to be completed in late 1992.

Reporters Notebook

NEW YORK (AP) — For a reporter’s notebook, the story was about the tensions at a scientific conference.

The gathering at the Republicans convention was held in St. Louis, Mo. The convention, which is scheduled to start on August 15, is expected to draw delegates from across the country.

"They were talking about the tension among the various factions," said the reporter. "There were some voices that were saying the convention was a joke," said the reporter.

The reporter noted that the convention is scheduled to feature thePlatform, which is expected to be a key issue in the election.

Iranians Approve Prime Minister

By United Press International

Teheran (UPI) — A large group of Iranian clerics and clerics in the capital city signed a statement endorsing Ayatollah Khomeini as the new Prime Minister.

The group, which is led by the Supreme Leader, met with Khomeini in his office and pledged their support for the new Prime Minister.

"We are not only endorsing Ayatollah Khomeini," said one of the clerics, "but we are also backing his policies and his government."
