THREE PLANES HIJACKED TO CUBA

Galleria: Where Is It Going?

(Editors' Note: An office tower completion in downtown Oklahoma City marked a significant landmark in the city's skyline. The Galleria, a multi-level shopping mall, opened in October 1980. The construction of such a building reflected the economic growth and development of the city.)

The developer recommended a builder he had worked with in Dallas. The builder, who had worked on the Galleria, was contacted by the developer in Oklahoma City. The construction project was delayed due to the completion of the new Galleria in Dallas.

But not everyone is satisfied with the arrangement. There are those who say too much was promised Galleria to come into the community. Some say the developer failed to deliver on his promises. The community was promised a "living" mall with restaurants, hotels, and entertainment facilities. So far, the only thing that seems to have been delivered is a mall.

Pittsburgh developer Vincent Carrozzi examines a model of the Galleria, a four-story retail-office complex he is developing downtown Oklahoma City. The $200 million project is a long-awaited dream of the city, but Carrozzi's control of the development has sparked some controversy and resentment from other developers whose projects have been blocked. Carter Needs To Admit Failures To Win

Becky Galston
NEW YORK — Jimmy Carter left the White House Friday as his party's nominee, and he got his right-hand man to follow him. That man was the man who was just his right-hand man: Walter Mondale.

The choice of Mondale, a former vice president and a long-time political associate of Carter, marked a major shift in the campaign and in the White House. President Carter is now a two-man ticket.

Mondale, who is also a candidate for vice president, was selected despite warnings from some of Carter's closest associates that he would be a divisive figure on the campaign trail. They pointed out that Mondale is a liberal and a Southerner, and that Carter is a conservative and a northerner.

But Carter believed that Mondale was the best choice for the job, and he was determined to win. He told his staff that he wanted a vice president who would help him carry the South, and he was confident that Mondale could do it.

Carter's decision was a bold one, and it came after much deliberation. He had considered other candidates, including Ed Koch, former mayor of New York City, and Walter Mondale, a liberal senator from Minnesota.

But in the end, Carter chose Mondale, and he was confident that he had made the right decision. He told his staff that he was looking forward to working with Mondale, and he was confident that they would make a great team.

Galleria Project Stirs Controversy

By ROBERT G. CHAMBERS

Louie Travis, general manager of the Galleria, has been under fire from both the community and the press for the delays in the construction of the new mall. Travis has been accused of mismanaging the project and not providing enough information to the public.

The Galleria is a multi-billion dollar project that is supposed to be completed by 2015. However, the construction has been delayed numerous times and the cost has surpassed original estimates.

Travis has defended his management, saying that the delays are due to unexpected complications. However, many in the community feel that Travis is not doing enough to keep them informed.

Man With Knife Delays Plane

A man who was carrying a knife on a New York-bound flight was arrested at the airport after he caused a delay. The man had a history of mental health issues and was banned from flying.

The airline said that they had no way of knowing about his past behavior, despite having information about his conditions. The incident has raised questions about the airline's screening processes.

Gasoline Tanks Explode And Burn

Two gasoline storage tanks exploded and burned at a plant in Texas, sending a plume of smoke thousands of feet into the air. The cause of the explosion is still under investigation.

Refugees Hijack Planes

A group of refugees hijacked a plane and forced it to land in a remote area. The refugees had been protesting their treatment in detention centers.

The government has been criticized for its handling of the situation, with some saying that it should have done more to prevent the hijacking.

Carter Speech

President Carter made a speech in which he addressed the ongoing crisis in the Middle East. Carter said that a peaceful resolution was possible if both sides were willing to negotiate.

The speech was met with mixed reactions, with some praising Carter's efforts and others criticizing him for not doing enough.

Street Will Close Monday

A street in the city will be closed on Monday due to construction. The closure is expected to cause some traffic disruptions.

Lawmen Agree On Rapist Description

Detectives have agreed on a description of the rapist who has been on the loose for months. The rapist is described as a tall, white male with a distinctive tattoo on his arm.

Nurses at Tulsas' 970 Hospital have filed a grievances against the hospital about the conditions of the operating rooms.

"We have been working in these rooms for years and we have never had any problems," said one nurse. "But now we are being forced to work in conditions that are not safe for us.
"We have been told that we must use sterilization equipment that is old and outdated. This equipment is not only dangerous to us, but it also puts our patients at risk."

The nurses are demanding better working conditions and are planning to continue their fight until their demands are met.

Duo Firm In Belief Of Pyramids On Rusty Mars

And now, for the first time, we bring you a story straight from the heart of space exploration. In a world where technology and human ingenuity have combined to push the boundaries of our understanding of the universe, a team of experts has discovered a surprising new fact about an ancient civilization.

But let's start at the beginning. It all began when a group of scientists, studying the vast expanse of the universe, noticed something... unusual. When they looked further, they found evidence of ancient structures... pyramids! And not just any pyramids, but ones that appeared to be on a planet far, far away.

This discovery has sent shockwaves through the scientific community. It challenges everything we thought we knew about the origins of human civilization and the vastness of the universe. The implications are vast, and the implications are made even more pressing when you consider the implications of the rust on these pyramids.

Many people wonder why these pyramids are there. If they are human-made, why are they on a planet that appears to be in a state of decay? If they are not, then what other purpose could these structures serve? The questions are endless, and the answers are elusive.

But the team, led by Dr. March B Stuttgart, believes that the pyramids are not just a sign of human creativity or ingenuity. They believe that these structures were built by a civilization that understood the power of rust and the way it could be used to create something new.

In an exclusive interview with the Journal, Dr. Stuttgart said: "We think that the ancient builders of these pyramids understood that rust is not just a natural process but a powerful tool for creating something beautiful.

"Rust is a process that happens naturally, and it can be controlled. We believe that the ancient builders of these pyramids understood this and used it to create something truly unique."}

Heston Hits The Road For 53rd Film

But let's move on to another story, one that is more about the present and the future. It's about a man who is about to embark on one of his most exciting adventures yet. His name is Heston, and he is a director who is about to make his 53rd film.

For Heston, this is a departure from his usual fare. He has always been known for his dramatic films, but this time, he's decided to take a different path. He's decided to focus on a film that is more about the human experience, more about the emotions that drive us all.

The story of the film is about a man who is about to embark on a journey of self-discovery. It's a story that is both intimate and universal, one that will resonate with audiences around the world. Heston is excited about the project, and he's looking forward to sharing it with the world.

In an interview with the Journal, Heston said: "I've always been interested in exploring the human experience, and this film is a perfect opportunity to do just that. I hope that it will resonate with audiences and that it will inspire them to look at their own lives in a new way."

Jazzercise: Letting Go To Get In Shape

By Dan Davis

"Walking into the room, I thought I was in a disco," says Linda Hous, a participant in the Jazzercise program.

The program is a perfect combination of aerobics and dance, according to Linda. The music is upbeat and encourages a fast-paced workout. "It's a total body workout, and it's fun," she adds.

Linda Hous, who is a sought-after instructor in Oklahoma City, says that the program is not only effective in improving physical fitness but also in boosting self-confidence. "The music is great, and the atmosphere is fun," she explains.

The Jazzercise program is held at the Village Baptist Church. Additional classes are being planned in September at the University of Oklahoma and Brookwood Village Apartments.

FOR JAMES F. FOX, author of The Compleat Book of Running:

Who is your favorite runner? How do we know if the information is accurate? — S.R., Jackson, Tenn.

I am unprepared to list a favorite runner, for there are so many. One runner who comes to mind is Mike Conolly, who set the American record in the 10,000 meters and the half-marathon. However, my son, John, who recently completed the Boston Marathon in 3:22, is also a remarkable runner.

FOR THE "ASK" EDITOR:

Why is Stanley Mouse not mentioned anywhere in your magazine? — N.W., Northfield, Minn.

I am not aware of any mention of Stanley Mouse in our magazine. He is a well-known graphic designer, and his work has been featured in numerous publications. It's possible that the coverage is limited due to space constraints or other factors.

FOR BARBARA BARRIE, star of the movie What's New, Pussycat?

What is her real name, and is she married? — J.L., Las Vegas, Nev.

Barbara Barrie's real name is Barbara Margaret Miller. She was married to actor Jack Palance until his death in 2003, and she has been married to actor/director John Badham since 1992.

FOR ELIZABETH M. STAUDER, Correspondent General at the United States:

What are the most common обращения dehydrated skin and how can they be treated? — B.B.S., Brookwood, Kan.

Dehydrated skin can often be treated with a combination of moisturizers and exfoliants. It's important to hydrate the skin properly and to avoid over-exfoliating, which can strip the skin of its natural oils. Proper diet and hydration are also important factors in maintaining healthy skin.

FOR PRO AND CON:

Should the Food and Drug Administration (F.D.A.) Act More Quickly in Approving Drugs?

No, there is no reason why the F.D.A. bureaucracy can’t speed up its drug-approval process. The agency is required to follow strict guidelines and standards to ensure the safety and efficacy of new medications. This is an important process, and it is necessary to protect public health. Rushing the approval process could lead to potential problems down the line. — W.C., Washington, D.C.

Yes, the F.D.A. should be more efficient in its drug-approval process. The public needs to receive new medications as quickly as possible to benefit from their potential health benefits. — L.M., Chicago, Ill.

CON

Sandra Wells, M.D., Director, Public Citizen, Health Research Group

No, thousands of prescription drugs and over-the-counter drugs have already been approved because of higher drug-regulation standards. Strengthening the review process is necessary to protect public health and ensure that new medications are safe and effective. — R.W., New York, N.Y.

PRO

Representative George E. Brown Jr. (D., Calif.), chairman, House Appropriations on Science, Research and Technology

Billy Martin Ignites Baseball Fever in Oakland

By David Gershman

Tennis, says the Oakland A's owner, is one of the few sports that can make money.

Billy Martin, once manager of the New York Yankees, is now the skipper of the A's. And he is looking to turn the A's into a winning baseball team.

Martin, who has been associated with the A's for 15 years, has been working hard to improve the team's performance. He has been bringing in new players and has been working to improve the team's overall strategy.

The A's are currently in third place in the American League West, but Martin is confident that they will be able to catch up with the other teams and win the division.

"I believe in this team," Martin said. "I have full confidence in our ability to perform well and I am committed to making sure that we have the best chance of winning."

enough about. Something that may be the key to stopping the advance of cancer.

The substance is called indoles. As a result of recent research, the name of a growing number of diet experts and medics is becoming familiar. These experts maintain that people who eat a lot of fruits and vegetables are less likely to get some kinds of cancer than those who don't.

There are a lot of theories about why this might be so. But the one that's gaining ground is the idea that indoles have a beneficial effect on the body's ability to fight cancer.

Scientists have found that when indoles enter the body, they produce an enzyme that can destroy cancer-promoting substances. This enzyme is called an antitumor. It's not numercounts, or antioxidant, but it's effective. And that's why the researchers say that the people who eat a lot of fruits and vegetables are less likely to get cancer.

But how can you get enough indoles to benefit from them?
The answer is to eat a lot of fruits and vegetables. And the better they are, the better.

Scientists have found that the indoles in fruits and vegetatables are produced by the body itself. But they don't produ-cinate in the same way as the indoles in the fruits and vegetables themselves. So, the more you eat, the more indoles you get.

And don't forget to eat raw vegetables. They contain a lot of indoles and other antioxidant substances.

So, the next time you're thinking about your diet, think about indoles. They may be the key to stopping the advance of cancer.

Picking the Right Dog
 Doesn't Have to Be Ruff

By Maurine C. Stevens

O ne of the top qualities in dogs, it seems, is to be just right. But the problem is finding them. There are so many to choose from, and so many of them are being born to be dogs. And then there is the problem of finding the right one for your family. It's a big job, and it can be a big responsibility. But it doesn't have to be. With a little planning and some common sense, you can find the right dog for your family, and make sure that it is happy and healthy.

H

FAMILY WEEKLY, AUGUST 17, 1960
Our Story:

King Arthur has banished his half brother, Moriori, and Captured, Salan, the young hero finds the Umlight Uncomfortable.

With Moriori’s confederates, Arthur is stern. “I’ve my brother, you remind me, unless him, you once were loyal. I can forget neither fact, for a year you will sail with our fishing fleet to protect them from brigands, to those of you who survive, I will then give a quest. You may succeed or you may die, but I will consider your honor redeemed.”

Prince Valiant and Arni arrive home some days later, thicker and thinner from their adventures in North Africa. Val has a loving word for everyone, and for Aletha something more.

REDEYE

I must be getting old... my memory is failing me.

Seems like I was supposed to remember something about today.

Something special... what the heck was it?

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, MAWSQUAW!

My birthday was four weeks ago.

That explains the starch in my underwear this past month.

I’ll bet she thinks I forgot all about it.

AHA! Now I remember!
