GM LAYOFF EXTENDED

By Nancy Finestri
Staff Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY — The layoffs of about 2,000 workers at the General Motors plant will be extended for an indefinite period, officials announced Thursday.

GM officials earlier had announced the layoff because of the company's financial problems. The plant normally produces 240,000 cars a year, but production was halted in mid-1979.

The layoffs were announced Thursday by Robert B. Nix, president of the Oklahoma City school board, and Leslie L. Bass, chairman of the board of directors of the Greater Oklahoma Chamber of Commerce.

Nix said he had met with GM officials earlier this week to discuss the possibility of extending the layoff.

Brody Fills Board Vacancy

BILLY CARTWRIGHT (OKLAHOMA CITY — Billy Cartwright, a 22-year-old basketball star with the University of Kansas, has been named to the board of directors of the Oklahoma City school board, it was announced today.

Cartwright has been a star player for the Kansas Jayhawks since 1979, and he has been named to the All-Big Eight team each year. He was also named to the All-American team in 1980.

Cartwright's appointment to the board of directors was announced by the Oklahoma City school board, which is responsible for the operation of the city's schools.

Cartwright said he was pleased to have been named to the board of directors and he was looking forward to working with the other members of the board to improve the quality of education in Oklahoma City.

Bendyk talks about his work with the board in an interview with the New York Times.

"I think it's important to be on the board because the school system is so important," he said. "I want to be a part of something that affects so many people."

Bendyk said he was excited about the opportunity to work with the board and he was looking forward to making a difference in the lives of Oklahoma City students.

Bendyk was named to the board of directors by the Oklahoma City school board in 2018.

Committee OKs Tax Cut Bill

The Senate Finance Committee, in a hearing yesterday, approved a $1.5 billion tax cut proposal for the new fiscal year. The committee's vote was 12-1, with Senate Majority Leader Jon Husted casting the lone no vote.

The tax cut proposal, which was introduced by Senate Majority Leader Kevin Kuykendall, would reduce the state's income tax rate from 6% to 4.5%. The proposal would also increase the state's sales tax rate from 9% to 9.5%.

The committee's vote was seen as a significant victory for the Republican Party, which has been pushing for tax cuts for months. The vote came after weeks of intense debate and negotiations between the House and Senate leadership.

The tax cut proposal is expected to be taken up by the full Senate next week, and it is expected to pass with little opposition.

The committee's approval of the tax cut proposal is a significant step in the process of getting the bill passed into law. The bill will now be considered by the full Senate, and it is expected to be passed with little difficulty.

The tax cut proposal is expected to provide a significant boost to the state's economy, and it is expected to create thousands of jobs and stimulate economic growth. The proposal is also expected to provide much-needed relief to Ohio's struggling middle class.

"This is a great day for Ohio," said Senate President Matt Huffman. "This is a bill that is going to make a real difference in the lives of Ohioans."

Is Carter's Popularity Rating Worth War?

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter is the only candidate in the 1976 presidential race who has not only succeeded in blaming the war in Vietnam on the previous administration but also has managed to remain relatively popular. After all, it is the policy of his party. Carter’s strategy is clear: to campaign aggressively against the war, while also trying to maintain a positive image. The result is a two-pronged approach to the contest — against both the war and the other candidates.

The New York Times editorial board has been critical of Carter’s stance on Vietnam, saying that it is “too timid” and “too soft.” They argue that Carter should take a stronger position and try to rally support against the war.

Triumph beats Winston Lights!

When tar levels were revealed, more smokers independently chose Triumph over Winston Lights to satisfy overall product preference. Of those expressing a preference, over 48% preferred 3 mg Triumph to 10 mg Winston Lights. Results showed that Triumph was also preferred over 12 mg Marlboro Lights, 8 mg Merit, 11 mg Salem Lights, and 8 mg Merit Menthol.

Now, test for yourself. Compare Triumph with any so-called "low tar" cigarette. You'll taste why we named it Triumph. Also available in Menthol.

Triumph, at less than one-fourth the tar, preferred over Winston Lights.

Book presents life of ‘ultimate power broker’

This is the story of a man who, more than any other, sums up the essence of life in the United States. Walter Lippmann was a journalist and intellectual who spent his life in the service of democracy. He was one of the most influential thinkers of the 20th century, and his ideas continue to shape the world we live in today.

Throughout the book, Steel draws on Lippmann’s own writings, as well as interviews with family members and colleagues. He provides a detailed account of Lippmann’s life and work, and offers insights into the political and intellectual climate of the times.

One of the most striking aspects of Lippmann’s life was his ability to connect with people. He was a masterful writer, and his ideas were accessible to a wide audience. He was also a tireless advocate for democracy, and he spent his life working to improve the world around him.

In conclusion, WALTER LIPPMANN AND THE AMERICAN CENTURY is a fascinating account of one of the most important minds of the 20th century. It is a must-read for anyone interested in politics, history, or journalism.
The Boss' Promises Album

David Bowie has literally been his- self out of shape for the American theatrical debut of the long-playing play titled "The Elephant Man," a Tony Award-winning play about John Merrick, a celebrated Victorian freak who lived as a sideshow curiosity in the 1800s. No makeup is used, and Merrick's grotesqueness is the result of a genetic mutation that deformed his body. The character is portrayed by an Asian actor, and the play is performed in a large theater. Merrick is scheduled to tour the physically demanding role at the Old Vic for the next 6 weeks, beginning on July 29 through Aug. 25, and then throughout London. He says he's excited about the role because it's "a true story" that truly "brings out the best in people." He acknowledges that playing Merrick is a difficult role but says he's ready for the challenge. The show has been well-received by critics and audiences alike, and has run for several weeks. The excitement of playing such a physically demanding role has proven to be a challenge for the actor, but he's determined to bring the character to life on stage. The play has received positive reviews for its compelling story and powerful performances, and is expected to run for many more weeks. The actor has been praised for his ability to portray the character convincingly, and has received critical acclaim for his portrayal of Merrick. The show is a major highlight of the theater season, and is a must-see for fans of theatrical performances. The actor has been involved in the production for several months, and has faced numerous challenges during rehearsals. However, he's dedicated to bringing the character to life on stage and is determined to succeed. The play is a powerful and moving story that continues to captivate audiences. The actor's performance has been备受赞誉，受到观众和评论家的高度评价。
'Octagon' a disappointment
Even for martial-arts fans

By Bill Colcutt
Knickle N Yoker

The Octagon," a lot of martial-arts business now growing and joining its way through neighborhood theaters. And the movie itself is a hybrid of modern film, however insignificant it may be, the movie goes on to say, "there's no denying the deep-seated action-romantic touch of modern times.

How is this achieved, you may ask. Well, there is that wildly original martial artist, the man himself, Norris. The Norris story doesn't seem to be a big hit, but it's not doing too bad. It's filled with skyscrapers and jokes employed by his fans, from the big city to the small town.

The sad thing about Norris is that he has a truly promising future in the world of action movies. His acting, direction, and writing all promise great things for the future of the world of martial arts.

And really, he is the real star of the film. His acting and dedication to the craft, although not clouded by his martial arts films, are a testament to his dedication and hard work. His fans have always known he had it in him to do great things, and the film "Octagon" proves that.

In conclusion, "Octagon" is a disappointing film for martial-arts fans and not the best moment in the world of cinema. Norris needs to find another avenue to explore his talent and showcase his dedication to the martial arts world.

Brubeck's music lacks adventure

By Jack Mathews

Knighthird Newspaper

"Smoky" was a smoky, white sheet music that found its way to America with film artists and music lovers alike. It was a hit, and it spread like wildfire on the road. And when "Smoky" asked for a private party in a secluded black and white car and in the end, the request was denied. The couple of screwdrivers was the theme of the whole adventure, and the screwdrivers are the true heroes of the film.

In the film, "Smoky" is seen driving around in a car, crashing into things, and generally having a good time. He is even offered a drink by a woman, which he accepts. He then drives off into the sunset, free and happy. It is a beautiful scene, and the film ends on a happy note.

In conclusion, "Smoky" is a film that lacks adventure and has a predictable storyline. However, it is a fun film to watch, and the music is quite enjoyable.

"Smoky" lacks charm, charm, charm!

By Peter Sellers

The movie "Smoky" is about a man named "Smoky" who is a bit of a loner and a bit of a charmer. He is a bit of a charmer because he can charm women with his smile and his charm, but he is also a bit of a loner because he is often found by himself, living a life of solitude.

In the movie, "Smoky" is seen driving around in a car, crashing into things, and generally having a good time. He is even offered a drink by a woman, which he accepts. He then drives off into the sunset, free and happy. It is a beautiful scene, and the film ends on a happy note.

Goodspeed Theater has a true slice of Americana

The theater's latest offering, "Love's Labor's Lost," is a delightful adaptation of William Shakespeare's comedy that was first performed in South Carolina in 1989. Directed by Mark Shanahan, the production features a cast of actors who bring the story to life with charm and humor.

"I was born with a silver spoon in my mouth," says one of the characters. "Now I'm going to make sure that everyone knows it!"

"The play is full of wit and vinegar," says Shanahan. "I think our audience will enjoy it very much."

Skynard Survivors

But the band's unexpected success has not been without its challenges. With the inevitable screams and squalls of the angry fans, Skynard has learned to deal with the stress of fame. "It's not easy," says lead singer Leon Skynard. "But we've learned to make it work."

Skynard's music has been described as "powerful" and "energetic." "The fans are our life," says Skynard. "We can't imagine not being around them."

Dressed To Kill" has suspense with style

By Jack Matthews
King Features Syndicate

You can't miss the buzz line for Brian De Palma's "Dressed To Kill." The movie has generated a tremendous amount of interest, and it's been a hit at the box office.

De Palma's take on the Psycho killer is a classic, but he's added a new twist to the formula. The killer wears a distinctive white suit and carries a black umbrella. "I wanted to give the audience something they hadn't seen before," says De Palma.

In the movie, a young actress is kidnapped by the killer, who then tortures her before finally killing her. The actress's boyfriend, a detective, is determined to bring the killer to justice.

"Dressed To Kill" is a film that will keep you guessing until the very end," says Matthews. "It's a suspenseful thriller that will have you on the edge of your seat."
