NEW YORK (UPI) — Chip Carter, the president’s son-in-law, was arrested Thursday night and charged withpatterned prostitution in a 1977 Florida drug ring that also involved his wife, Rachel. Carter was arrested at his White House residence. The magazine reported:

Time said although no evidence of the charges was disclosed in court documents, the president was involved in the investigation. The magazine quoted a source who said the vice president was also a target.

Time said that the vice president was invited to a White House party on Friday night, and that the president was not expected to attend.

The magazine reported that a White House source said the president was not expected to attend any of the events.

Taxpayer Ripoff?

The television news program "60 Minutes" recently ran a feature story exposing an oil company that had taken advantage of a tax loophole to avoid paying billions of dollars in taxes. The company, which will remain unnamed to protect their identity, used a complex and legal strategy to dodge its tax obligations. The story highlighted the need for a comprehensive reform of the tax system to ensure that large corporations are held accountable for their financial responsibilities.

Ed Muskie Is Feeling Used And Abused

WASHINGTON - Sen. Edmund Muskie has been feeling used and abused recently. Despite the public appearances he's been making in support of the energy bill, there's a growing feeling among his constituents that he has sold out to the oil companies. Muskie, who has long been a champion of federal energy policy, was a key supporter of the bill and his name is now associated with the new law.

Jack Anderson

In late fall, Sen. Harriman compromised on energy policy. He negotiating with oil companies to include more subsidies for the industry. Muskie was against this compromise and thought it was a "sellout." But the public appears to have accepted the compromise and not Muskie. It's a sad situation for him. He's feeling used and abused - and he's not alone.

Presidential Campaigns Underway

Film: ‘Pieces Of Time That People Never Forget’

By John Nolan

The story of businessman Martin Lawrence’s return to his small town and the events that unfold is the basis for the film "Pieces Of Time That People Never Forget," starring Robert Peter Williams, Yaphet Kotto, and Charles Durning.

In the story, Williams, who is played by Kotto, returns to his hometown after years of absence. He is involved in a series of events that include a murder investigation, a love interest, and a political intrigue.

The film’s director, Peter Morgan, said, "The story is a tribute to the town’s history and the people who live there. It’s a story about the past, but it’s also about the present and the future."}

Major Gas Price Break Predicted

By Paul Green and Wayne Reilly

Natural gas could be a major break in the high prices of energy. Rising natural-gas prices have already caused some companies to increase their service fees. But this will likely lead to a reduction in gas use, which in turn could cause production to fall, leading to higher prices. But the market is not convinced.

Edward Dreyfuss, senior energy analyst at Dreyfuss Associates, says that the price of natural gas could rise to $5 per million British thermal units by the end of the year. He predicts that prices will rise to $6 per million Btu by next year.

Dreyfuss says that the current high prices are due to a combination of factors, including the increase in demand for gas and the decrease in supply. He predicts that the price will not fall below $4 per million Btu because of the increase in demand for gas.

Muffins Invade Chicago

By Don Lusby

NEW YORK (UPI) - Muffins are taking the place of the familiar cupcake in a new wave of baking products that is sweeping the country.

The late 1960s witnessed a nationwide trend toward more healthful, whole-grain products, and muffins, once considered a minor specialty, have emerged as a bakery staple. The average cupcake still weighs in at about 100 calories, but the newly minted muffin has only about 75.

At the end of the first week of the new year, the muffin wave was expected to reach its peak as the season's first fruits are harvested. The forecast for the next month is a bumper crop of muffins, but a relatively dry first week of the new year has slowed the progress of the muffin harvest.

The surge in muffin production has also been accompanied by a lower price of muffins, which are now available at more than half the price of cupcakes.

Teastor Wage Hike Delayed Asked

By Dick Hahn

NEW YORK (UPI) - Teastor Company, which produces teapots and other culinary products, is planning to raise its teapot prices by $1 per dozen next month.

The price increase is scheduled to take effect in January, but it is expected to be delayed because of the current economic conditions. The company is also considering the possibility of raising its prices in future months.

The teapot company has been under pressure to increase prices due to rising costs. However, the company is also aware of the current economic situation and is considering the impact of a price increase before making any decisions.

Patent Revision Likely

By Jay Johnson

NEW YORK (UPI) - Revision of the U.S. patent system is expected to result in a 23 percent increase in the number of patents issued.

The current system, which grants a patent for 17 years, is expected to be revised to provide for a 20-year protection period.

The patent revision is expected to be approved by Congress in the next month. The new system is expected to provide for a 23 percent increase in the number of patents issued.

Annual Fall Unveiling Void

By Ramon Prez

"One doesn't know what it's about, but it's to me an easy part of my life," the Worst TV star said. The Worst TV star found his way into television in 1972, when he was approached by producers who were looking for an up-and-coming actor to play a character in their new show. The Worst TV star was thrilled to have the opportunity to work on such a prestigious show and was determined to make the most of his big break.

Take A Walk in America.

The Worst TV star quickly became a fan favorite, and his role on the show became one of the most talked about aspects of the show. Despite the success of his character, however, the Worst TV star struggled to find work after the show ended in 1977.

Stay up with Jerry and watch the show come out. The Jerry Lewis Show this Sunday.

Robert Redford
The Growing of Hollywood's Golden Boy

On screen and off, Redford is a man of many parts. But perhaps his most comfortable role is behind the camera.

I've always liked the idea of having a man like Redford around to do things. He's got a great sense of humor, and he's not afraid to let it show. He's very relaxed and easy to work with. We've been on a number of projects together, and he's always been a pleasure to work with. He's a great actor, and he's got a lot of talent. He's got a great sense of timing, and he's able to bring a lot of energy to a scene.

On screen, Redford is often seen in roles that require a lot of physical activity, but he's also able to bring a lot of emotion to his performances. He's a great actor, and he's able to convey a lot of feeling with his face and his body. He's got a great sense of timing, and he's able to bring a lot of energy to a scene. He's also a great director, and he's able to bring a lot of energy to the set. He's a great actor, and he's got a lot of talent. Keeping Good Kids From Turning Bad

By Rex Cohoon

Teenagers are, as always, a concern. Our children are on their own feet. However, if we've taught them the right things, if we've shown them the right way, they'll be all right. The real problem is the one who isn't. How can we be sure?

1. Look at their friends. If they're hanging out with good kids, they're good kids. If they're hanging with the wrong kind of kids, they're good kids. I mean, how do you know if they're good kids or bad kids?

2. Listen to their music. If they're listening to good music, they're good kids. If they're listening to the crap you wouldn't listen to, they're good kids. But how do you know what kind of music they're listening to?

3. Look at their clothes. If they're wearing good clothes, they're good kids. If they're wearing the kind of clothes you wouldn't wear, they're good kids. But how do you know what kind of clothes they're wearing?

4. Check their bedroom. If it's clean and tidy, they're good kids. If it's a disaster zone, they're good kids. But how do you know what kind of state their room is in?

5. Listen to what they say. If they're talking about good things, they're good kids. If they're talking about good things, they're good kids. But how do you know what kind of things they're talking about?

6. Watch their grades. If they're getting good grades, they're good kids. If they're getting good grades, they're good kids. But how do you know what kind of grades they're getting?

7. Look at their friends. If they're hanging out with good kids, they're good kids. If they're hanging with the wrong kind of kids, they're good kids. I mean, how do you know if they're good kids or bad kids?

8. Listen to their music. If they're listening to good music, they're good kids. If they're listening to the crap you wouldn't listen to, they're good kids. But how do you know what kind of music they're listening to?

Keep these rules in mind, and you'll be sure your kids are good kids.
