250 Women In Congress By 2000?

Washington, D.C. — Top House leader Rep. Tip O'Neill (D-Mass.) and many other senior Democrats say they expect the House to have at least 250 women in 2000.

"There is no question in my mind that women will make up a significant portion of Congress," said O'Neill, the speaker of the House. "They bring a different perspective and a different viewpoint to the issues that face our country."

In the Senate, where women currently hold just three of the 100 seats, the outlook is not as bright. But there are still hopes for a major increase in the number of female senators.
