OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY — The Oklahoman has endorsed the lead state Senate during the legislative session. Senate Majority Leader Richard S. Throgmorton, R-Stillwater, has been selected by the paper as the most effective leader. Throgmorton's appointment was a significant one, as he is expected to continue the leadership role established by his predecessor, Sen. Don B. Miller, R-Oklahoma City, who passed away last year.

Debates Threatened?

By United Press International

The debate over the future of Oklahoman has been ongoing for some time. The Senate has been divided on the issue, with some members calling for a vote on the matter. Sen. John D. Halladay, D-Oklahoma City, has been a vocal critic of the current leadership, calling for a change in the Senate's approach to legislation.

"I'm concerned about the direction the Senate is taking," Halladay said in a recent interview. "We need to make sure that our decisions are based on the best interests of the state, rather than political Expediency."

Halladay's comments have been met with mixed reactions from his colleagues. Some have praised his stance, while others have called for him to tone down his criticism.

"Halladay is right," said Sen. George W. Crandall, R-Oklahoma City. "We can't afford to make decisions based on political Expediency. We need to make sure that our actions are in the best interests of the state."

Others, however, have suggested that Halladay's comments are nothing more than a ploy to gain political advantage.

"Halladay is just trying to advance his own political career," said Sen. Nancy L. Wilson, D-Oklahoma City. "He's not worried about the state, he's worried about himself."

Despite the divisions, both sides agree that the debate is important. The Senate's actions could have far-reaching implications for the state, and it is crucial that they make the right decisions.

"We need to make sure that our decisions are based on the best interests of the state," said Sen. John D. Halladay, D-Oklahoma City. "We can't afford to make decisions based on political Expediency. We need to make sure that our actions are in the best interests of the state."

On the other side, Sen. George W. Crandall, R-Oklahoma City, argued that the Senate's actions should be based on political Expediency. "We need to make sure that our decisions are based on the best interests of the state," said Sen. George W. Crandall, R-Oklahoma City. "We can't afford to make decisions based on political Expediency. We need to make sure that our actions are in the best interests of the state."

The debate is expected to continue for some time, with both sides vowing to fight for their positions. It remains to be seen how the Senate will ultimately decide on the matter.

Don’t take it home with you.

A lot of people do it. Take their problems home with them from work. They worry about their jobs and their salaries. How much they take home against how much they pay out. If they can expect a raise in pay or when.

One way to avoid worry is to start saving. Join the Payroll Savings Plan at work. A little portion of your pay is automatically set aside toward the purchase of U.S. Savings Bonds.

A portion you won’t get to take home with you. But you’ll never see it and you’ll never miss it. So you’ll never spend it. You’ll know it’s working for you every day. It’s helping to give you a cushion in hard times. Or a way of achieving a goal in good times.

So don’t take it home with you. Leave that “little extra” where it’ll do you some good. Adding up to a lot of U.S. Savings Bonds.

Simple Life's The Good Life For Poke Doerner

By Tom Dirato

STILLWATER - Poke Doerner might score the living room area of his house and the won't give up to the people he knows well enough to call family. But just as he has a personality with serene features during the rest of the world, so too does he have a personality with stern features during the rest of the world. His sternness is most apparent when he is at work, teaching and leading the Oklahoma State football team. It's his manner to keep a steady pace in the midst of chaos, to keep a steady eye on the players, and to keep a steady grip on the game.

But that all came to an end last Saturday. The young men who look and act the part perfect for a team leader, the ones who can lead the team, the ones who can lead the nation. Still, he stands out as one of the nation's top coaches. The game he led against Texas was not the game he led against Oklahoma, but it was a game that showcased his ability to keep a steady pace in the midst of chaos.

I think there's more you can do in that weight room, Poke Doerner said. The guys who are going to play in that weight room, they're going to be able to work hard and play hard. They're going to be able to work hard and play hard. And we've got to be able to work hard and play hard.

Redshirt weighs Heavy on Phelps

If you didn't know him any better, you'd sure think he had a shot at being an instant star. He's been out for four full seasons, waiting for his turn to shine. But the wait is over, and he's ready to lead the Cowboys back to glory.

Kelly Phelps isn't a typical redshirt. This is the year he will finally get his chance. He's been a team leader and a constant source of motivation for his teammates. His presence on the field is felt by everyone.

"I've been waiting for this moment," Phelps said. "Now that I'm redshirted, I can finally show what I can do." He's ready to make his mark on the team and become a force to be reckoned with.

Phelps' addition to the lineup has given the team a new dimension. His speed and agility make him a valuable asset. The Cowboys will be looking to him to lead the way as they prepare for the upcoming season.

"We're excited to have Kelly back," coach Mike Riley said. "He's been waiting for his chance, and now he's ready to make the most of it."

I'm in a different situation this year because of the attitude I've acquired for everything different. That is the primary cause. I don't want to think about playing football and I don't want to think about the game. I've been told by the physicians and I'm under the care of my regular physicians and I'm doing everything within the limits of my physical limitations to make sure that I stay away from football."

Also, I accept the people put on me whether it's much about it. My only concern is with the game and I'm not thinking about the physical aspec-

I'm not thinking about the past. I'm thinking

'Horns Have It All Going Their Way

Everyone was waiting for the Arkansas-Texas game for the winner of the contest would be at a distinct advantage in the Southeastern Conference. Ark-La-Miss and Texas-A&M have played to at least a tie in this contest since 1924.

The Longhorns were at an advantage before the game even started. In the games played in October, Arkansas and Texas have played in the same conference since 1953.

The Longhorns have been able to take advantage of this since 1953.

You would never get Arkansas to believe the Longhorns just because they are a powerful team. There are still concerns about the Longhorn's football program stepping up the game to meet the expectations.

For all practical purposes the Longhorns can start moving on a different direction and talk about next weekends game. They can start focusing on different teams. They can start moving on to the next game.

ALABAMA VS. GEORGIA TECH 2 – Will be the overtime game that the game was supposed to be. This game was supposed to take place on October. And another advantage was that they would have won in the other game possible for other teams.

The Longhorns still have two things to be thankful for. They have a second chance to win the Southeastern Conference. They have some more to change about this weekends game.

FEATHERSTON VS. GEORGIA 14 – The Volunteers have been expecting something. It is hard to believe. But the lack of experience means the Volunteers will struggle.

The game was very close but for the Volunteers. The lack of experience doesn't hurt them in this game. And the Volunteers won the game.

Featherston was very close but for the Volunteers. The lack of experience doesn't hurt them in this game. And the Volunteers won the game.

The results have to be different.

KENTUCKY VS. ILLINOIS 7 – The Illinois Volunteers will be watching this one closely. They have been struggling this season. And the Volunteers have to be a little bit more patient with this team.

The Colleges

While it's true that Florida's winning streak against the SEC is over, the team's overall success remains impressive. Rich Rodriguez's coaching is key, but the players on the field also deserve credit. The team's defense has been particularly strong, holding opponents to just 13 points per game.

Pac-10 Penalty Enough?

By Adrian Bad

Nearly five weeks ago the Pac-10 announced its decision to impose a penalty on Arizona State, Oregon, and Oregon State. The penalty was based on violations of NCAA rules regarding academic and financial aid violations.

The decision has been met with mixed reactions. Some believe the penalties are too lenient, given the severity of the violations. Others argue that the NCAA's punishment is appropriate.

Several other USC players are also facing similar penalties, which could have a significant impact on the team's season. The Pac-10's decision to impose penalties on these players has sparked debate across the conference.
