For OC School Kids, The Heat's On Again

By Nancy Fleisien

OKLAHOMA CITY - "The heat is really on again," declared Ausie Cavanagh, a teacher at a local school, as some kids' faces were melting. But the weather was cooling down last night and I was pleasantly surprised to hear "it's cooling down" during a Thursday stroll through one of Oklahoma City's high schools.

But, is the heat gone? The real heat, the kind of heat that makes us turn on our air conditioners, seems to be on the way. The school day is full of Dr. David Brown, a doctor who specializes in heat-related illnesses.

"In the school year," he warned, "the heat can be dangerous. It's important to stay hydrated and avoid prolonged exposure to the sun."

In the room next door, instructor Anne Taylor, a teacher for 27 years, agreed. "It was 103 degrees in here," she said, "and the students were tired and dehydrated."

"Dr. Brown's advice," she continued, "is to stay cool and drink plenty of water."

In the hallway, Coach Love Denton, who works with girls' softball and boys' basketball teams, said, "It's important to take breaks and stay hydrated."

In the classroom, student Jessica Smith, a senior, said, "It's hot, but we're just used to it."

In the lunch room, student Mike Brown, a junior, agreed. "It's hot, but we're just used to it."

Outside, student John Green, a senior, said, "It's hot, but we're just used to it."

Editor

Billy Graham

Dear Mr. Dickey,

Last year, I read your editorial about the need for reform in our political system. I was struck by your words that "we need a government that is responsive to the needs of its citizens."

I have since been researching the issue of political reform and have found that there are many ways in which our system could be improved. One of the most pressing issues is the need for campaign finance reform.

Campaign finance reform would ensure that political candidates are not beholden to special interests and that their actions are truly in the best interests of the public. It would also help to ensure that all voices are heard in the political process.

I fully support your editorial and encourage you to continue to speak out in favor of political reform.

Sincerely,

Billy Graham

Missing Microfilm: Was Kissinger Compromised?

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON - The intelligence community has yet to an answer for what appears to be a massive breach of national security. The White House has been hush about the incident, but it has resorted to some very strange explanations about the situation.

The most recent explanations that have been made public have been that the microfilm that was compromised belongs to the CIA, and that it was stolen by a former employee. However, there is no evidence to support these claims.

It has been reported that Kissinger was involved in some way with the incident, but he has refused to comment. This is not the first time that Kissinger has been involved in a security breach.

The situation appears to be escalating, and it is clear that the White House is taking no action to address the issue.

Thoughts

The situation is a serious one, and it is important that we take it seriously. The national security of our country is at stake, and we cannot afford to let it fall into the wrong hands.

We need to demand transparency from the White House, and we need to demand accountability from those in charge.

Bride Magazines: A Secret World

Bob Greene

Most men aren't very good at marriage, but I am among them. I have tried to be a good husband, but I have made some mistakes.

I have learned a lot from my experience. I have learned that marriage is hard work, but it is also beautiful. I have learned that love is not enough, we must also work at it.

I am grateful for my wife, and I am grateful for the lesson she has taught me.

Thoughts

Marriage is a journey, and it is one that we must take together. We must work at it, and we must love it.

93 Percent Registered For Draft

Gary Lickey

93 percent of those eligible to register for the draft have registered. This is a significant increase from last year, when only 72 percent were registered.

The increase in registration is a sign that people are taking this issue seriously. It is also a sign that they are taking the threat of war seriously.

Thoughts

The draft is a serious issue, and it is one that we must take seriously. We must do everything we can to ensure that we are not put in a position to go to war.

Thoughts

Hit-And-Run Information Sought

The state police are seeking information about a hit-and-run accident. The accident occurred last Wednesday night on Main Street.

The police are hoping to find witnesses who may have seen the accident. They are also hoping to find anyone who may have information about the driver.

Thoughts

Actor Talks Threatened?

Beverly Hills, Calif. — "I never had a problem before, but now I have one, and I don't know how to solve it," said actor John Kennedy on Wednesday.

"I was walking down the street yesterday, and suddenly a group of people started to scuffle, and I thought, 'Oh, no! Here we go again.' But then I realized it was just a bunch of teenagers having a good time. So I said, 'Hey, cool kids! Keep it up!' and they went nuts."

Kennedy, 25, is best known for his role as "The Guy" on the hit television show "Beverly Hills, 90210." He said he was "aghast" that the teen culture in California had gotten so out of control.

According to the Los Angeles Teachers' Union, the strike was called over "the lack of respect for the professional judgment of teachers." The union also cited "the failure to provide adequate resources for teaching" as reasons for the strike.

The strike began on Monday and has led to the closure of all public schools in Los Angeles. Teachers have been calling for higher pay and better working conditions. Parents and students are reportedly upset by the disruption to their education.

Teens to Test "American Pie" for "Coming to America" Remake

Actors

"American Pie" is a coming-of-age comedy that first hit theaters in 1999 and has since become a cult classic. The film follows a group of teenagers as they embark on a road trip to a distant lake in order to escape the strict expectations of their parents. The film is known for its explicit content and humorous take on teenage life.

In the sequel, "American Pie 2," the original cast members will reprise their roles, and the film is expected to follow the characters as they navigate their way through college. The producers of the film have reportedly spent months searching for the perfect teen actors to take on the challenge of bringing the beloved characters to life.

"American Pie 2" is set to hit theaters in early 2001. Auditions for the new film are currently underway, and interested applicants are encouraged to submit their resumes for consideration.

Book Is Barefaced Attack On OU, State

By Associated Press

A book recently published in Oklahoma City has caused quite a stir in the state's political circles.

The book, "Oklahoma: A State of Pride and Passion," is a collection of essays written by a group of retired journalists and historians. The authors, who are critical of the University of Oklahoma (OU), have accused the university of promoting a "false image of the state and its history." The book includes essays that question the accuracy of OU's portrayal of events, such as the "Okie" migration and the state's role in World War II.

"OU has long promoted a sanitized version of its history," said one of the book's contributors. "This book seeks to correct that." The authors have also criticized OU's handling of the recent Eli Holman case, in which a former OU student was convicted of rape.

OU President David Boren has been quick to respond to the book's release. "We take our history very seriously," he said. "We are committed to maintaining a positive image of Oklahoma and its universities." Boren said that the university would not comment further on the release of the book, but that it would continue to promote its own version of Oklahoma's history.
