MORE SHAKEUPS MADE IN POLAND

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The ruling Communist Party Central Committee on Friday gave its first indication that it was preparing for a leadership change, naming a new leader to be named next week to succeed Lech Walesa, the left-wing politician who has become a symbol of the Solidarity movement. Walesa, 50, was named by the committee as its new leader, ending a nationwide campaign that began a year ago. Walesa, a former electrician, has been a leader of the Solidarity movement for more than a decade, and his appointment is seen as a major step forward for the movement. Walesa, who has been living in exile in Sweden since 1986, is expected to return to Poland next week to take up his new duties. The move is seen as a significant step forward for the Solidarity movement, which has been striving for greater democracy and human rights in Poland for many years. The new leader will be named in a special session of the Central Committee, which is expected to take place next week. Walesa has been a key figure in the movement, and his appointment is seen as a significant victory for those who support greater democracy and human rights in Poland.

Sex Education ‘Important’

By Nancy Finnegan

OKLAHOMA CITY — Delivering babies for teenage mothers may be costing Oklahoma taxpayers $2,400 per year, a state senator said Wednesday, as she called for a closer look at how the state addresses the issue.

"When adults fight about it, kids lose," said Sen. Scott Ditter.

The legislation, sponsored by the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, is based on findings from a study by the National Center for Educational Statistics, released at a meeting of the Senate's education committee.

The study, which looked at data from more than 300,000 births, found that teenage mothers who received prenatal care were less likely to have complications during pregnancy and that their babies were less likely to be premature.

The legislation would create a task force to examine the impact of the state's current system of prenatal care on outcomes for both the mother and the child.

Emmy Boycott Spreads

HOLLYWOOD - Consuelo B. Bru, president of the Screen Actors Guild, was quoted in Variety yesterday as saying that the 22nd annual Primetime Emmy Awards show, which was to be held tonight in the Forum, has been canceled due to the boycott by the actors against the show.

The boycott was launched in protest of the network's failure to negotiate union contracts, which has led to the cancellation of the show. The network has since agreed to negotiate with the actors union, and the Emmy Awards are likely to proceed as planned.

Gene-Splacers Can't Explain It

Dr. J. A. Smith

The madhouse has plans to propose a new law that will make it illegal to use gene-splacers in their laboratories. This is in order to prevent any accidental use of gene-splacers, which can cause serious health problems.

It's the first time that the madhouse has taken such a step, and it's been met with mixed reactions. Some people support the move, while others are concerned about the implications.

Shaun Surely Not Gone

By Ron Miller

The whole bunch was thrilled when it became apparent that their favorite TV show, "Shaun Surely Not Gone," would resume production. Many fans had been disappointed when the show was put on hold due to budget cuts, but now they can look forward to more episodes soon.

The show's creator, Max Stone, said that he was happy with the decision to resume production. "We're excited to get back to work," he said. "We've missed the characters and the stories, and we can't wait to bring them back to the screen."
Interest Rates Up; Stocks Down

NEW YORK (AP) — Banks added Friday to their inflow of deposits from the public, moving money into the financial system just as the Federal Reserve was at the other end, trying to drain it out. Interest rates rose sharply.

The rise in short-term money rates, with 3-month Treasury bills up 2.55 percent to 8.30 percent, brought the return on most money market investments to about 8 percent. The large inflows of funds into money market mutual funds further pushed up the yields of these popular accounts.

But long-term money rates increased modestly. The one-year certificate of deposit rate rose 1/8 of a percentage point to 9 3/4 percent, and the five-year note rate also increased 1/8 of a point to 11 percent. The 30-year mortgage rate rose 1/4 of a percentage point to 13 1/2 percent.

The substantial rise in short-term rates — with 3-month Treasury bills up 2.55 percent to 8.30 percent — was expected. But the movement of funds into money market mutual funds was surprising, given the recent record-high yields.

The Federal Reserve has been trying to drain short-term money out of the system. But the efforts may have been insufficient to offset the inflow of deposits from the public, which already faced high interest rates because of the inflows of funds into money market mutual funds.

The rise in short-term money rates was expected to slow down the sharp increase in the inflation rate that had been rising at a 7.6 percent rate. The rise in short-term money rates may also have slowed the rise in the share prices, with the Dow Jones average of industrial issues down 0.65 points to 940.96.

Irish Breeze Past Rockets
Iran System Incompetent

By United Press International

Gauging Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghashghai as he entered breakfast Friday in Warsaw, it was evident that the country would reject the selective demands made of it in the past.

Iran would not allow itself to be rebuffed and threatened by the West. It would not allow itself to be rebuffed by the United States.

Ghashghai, who is on a 10-day trip to Europe, was asked by reporters what he thought of the situation in the Middle East.

"We are not interested in the problems of the Middle East," he said. "We are interested in the problems of our country."
