HELP COMING FOR NE OKC?

By Donald W. Gill

OKLAHOMA CITY — A select group of Oklahoma City area commercial banks and the city's largest retailers have joined forces to make a $3 million loan to the city's largest minority-owned business, the Oklahoma City Board of Realtors.

The banks, which include First National Bank, Bank of Oklahoma, and First National Bank & Trust, will provide the loan to the real estate board to help it purchase land for a new headquarters building.

The loan, which is expected to be finalized within the next week, will be used to purchase a site near downtown Oklahoma City. The real estate board had been planning to sell the land for development, but decided to purchase it after the banks offered to provide the loan.

"This is a great day for the Oklahoma City Board of Realtors," said board president Kim Rector. "We're grateful to the banks for their support and we're excited about the new building."

"The real estate industry is vital to the economy of this city," said Mayor Jim Dugan. "We're proud to help the Oklahoma City Board of Realtors grow."

Morgan Overtakes Cook, Leads By 2

By Howard Press Internationally

When Bob Morgan, 1968 National League batting champion, got his first hit of the season off Don Drysdale in the bottom of the first inning of last night’s game at Dodger Stadium, he became the first man to hit a home run in the first inning of the season.

"I was just trying to hit the ball," Morgan said. "It’s been a tough year for me. But I’ve got to keep trying."

Morgan, who is looking for a new team after being traded by Cincinnati, is currently leading the league in batting average at .320.

American Fashion at its best... its style and spirit... its energy and unique, personal attitude. The people who wear it... the models... no one else... no one except us, no one else... a feeling of being made a change in their fashion from Vogue's New York Collections for the U.S.A. Mondomare.

Balliett's Hosts Vogue Show

One of the nation's leading fashion editors, Barbara McMillan, will be presenting a fashion show at Balliett's of New York and will Vogue's new collection of clothes for Fall 1980. The show will feature over 50 pieces from the new collection, many of which will be on sale at Balliett's. The event will take place on Wednesday, September 23rd, at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free and open to the public.

Cover Story

"The First Look at Fall '80" by Barbara McMillan: "As the days of summer fade into memory, the fashion world begins to focus on the upcoming Fall season. This year, designers are looking to the past for inspiration, drawing on the styles and colors of the 1960s and 1970s. The result is a collection of easy, comfortable clothing that is both chic and practical. From silk dresses to cotton trousers, the Fall 1980 collection offers something for every woman."

Bill Blass: Fashion For '80

A picture is worth a thousand words. In these fashions from Bill Blass, the designer's signature style is evident. The soft, pastel colors and flowing lines are a perfect blend of elegance and comfort. The collection includes dresses, suits, and accessories that are perfect for both day and evening wear. Be sure to check out Bill Blass' new line at your local department store.

"We are passionate about supporting our troops," said Warnock. "We want to make sure they have the best possible clothing to keep them warm and comfortable during their deployment.

The clothes drive will take place from now until the end of the month. We encourage everyone to donate gently used clothing in good condition. All donations will be collected at the DAR Chapter's headquarters located at 123 Main Street.

Shoe Heels Slowly Inching Their Way Down

By James Larson

Although many women have been wearing heels for centuries, the trend seems to be changing. According to a recent study, shoe heels are slowly inching their way down.

The study, which was conducted by a team of researchers at the University of California, found that women are increasingly choosing to wear flats or sneakers instead of heels.

"It's not just a matter of comfort," said Dr. Elizabeth Johnson, one of the study's authors. "Wearing heels can also cause long-term foot problems, including bunions and corns.

Wine Connoisseurs Should Buy Now

By Michael Parkinson

The market will not bear marking time. Take the case of the most respected domestic wines currently on offer. They are not only not getting better, they are getting worse. Think of the Neyers Cabernet Sauvignon. Once a gem, its current offering is an embarrassment. And the Château Montelena, which should be among the greats, is now just a decent wine. They are typical of the rest. The best domestic wines are simply not getting better. It's time to seek intermediate-quality wines, both at home and abroad. There are many out there that are much more pleasing. And, for those who want to get beyond domestic wines, think of the Trefethen Cabernet Sauvignon, a Californian offering that is just outstanding. And for those who want to get beyond California, think of the Château Latour, a French offering that is simply a masterpiece. The point is that there are many, many fine wines out there that are much more pleasing than the best domestic wines.

No Shortage Of Mustard

By Sally Brown

People are sometimes surprised to learn that there are mustard plants throughout the United States. The plants can be found in almost every state, and they produce a wide variety of mustard. The most common type of mustard is the yellow mustard, which is used to make the popular condiment. Other types of mustard include the brown mustard, which is used to make curry powder, and the black mustard, which is used to make flavorings. There are also many other types of mustard, such as the white mustard, which is used to make cheese, and the Japanese mustard, which is used to make sauces. The mustard plants are grown in a variety of different climates, and they can be found in a variety of different environments, such as fields, gardens, and even in the wild.

She Mends Fences

By Jane Doe

For many people, the fence is the symbol of the home. It separates the inside from the outside, and it provides a sense of security and privacy. The fence is also a symbol of work and effort. Building a fence requires a great deal of planning and effort, and it can be a very rewarding experience. The fence can also be a symbol of community. In some neighborhoods, the fence is used as a way to mark the boundaries of the community. The fence can also be a symbol of beauty. In some cases, the fence is decorated with flowers or other decorations, and it can add a touch of beauty to the landscape.

Detroit Looks To Sims To Move Team Up In NFL

By United Press International

The Detroit Lions have signed fullback Jim Sims to help bolster their running game, according to a report in The Detroit News.

Sims, who was cut by the Atlanta Falcons earlier in the week, is expected to join the team in time for training camp, which begins later this month.

"After he got here the first thing we asked him was, 'what's up with the ball?" said guard Monte Clark on Friday. 'He's been catching it every day.'"

In addition, the Lions have signed wide receiver Mike Haggerty, who was released by the New England Patriots earlier this week.

A waiting Sims 201 signs his team on the practice field in Detroit, where he suffers only an occasional flat tire. Sims has a real good chance to be the Lions' first-string fullback.

Bills Try To Silence Miami Laughs

By United Press International

It wasn't the usual laugh track for the Buffalo Bills. Instead, it was a chorus of jeers from Miami fans.

The Bills, who were leading the Dolphins, 21-7 in the third quarter, had to endure a series of taunts from Dolphins fans who were not impressed by the Bills' offensive performance.

"They were laughing at us," said Bills quarterback Jim Kelly. "But we didn't let it affect us."

Tampa's John McKay: Behind Football's Biggest Turnaround

By Mark Goodson

I have aaccount of B.J. Simpson as a kid killer of mine. Also account of B.: I never learned his name or age. He had his hand about six inches, while the other hand didn't work.

Scouting in 1974 was the National Football League's annual hunt for talent. Tampa Bay was up against the clock, the poor man's team in the American League of Professional Football. McKay took over as coach in 1974 and led his team to a 7-9 record. In 1975, the team improved to 9-5, but McKay was fired after the season.

McKay and his players are very much in demand. Last spring, Dixie Bell's (a Tampa Bay locker) was offered to him for $2.5 million. McKay turned it down. The offer was later increased to $5 million. McKay's role in the development of American football is considered to be significant. The Tampa Bay Buccaneers have become a model for other teams in the league.

The Buccaneers began in 1976 and McKay was their first coach. He led them to a 7-9 record in his first season. In 1977, the team improved to 8-8, and McKay was given a contract extension. In 1978, the team finished 11-1, and McKay was named Coach of the Year.

The Buccaneers have won two Super Bowl titles, in 1979 and 1980. McKay was named Coach of the Year after each championship season. He retired from coaching in 1986, and the Buccaneers have not won a Super Bowl since.

McKay's influence on American football cannot be overstated. He was one of the first coaches to use the spread offense, which has become the norm in the NFL. His innovative approach to football has had a lasting impact on the sport.

John McKay

McKay, at 57, the dean of the N.F.L. coaches, comes by his cryptic demeanor and Iron Curtain charm naturally. A native of Everett, Wash., young John helped guide Coria High after the death of his coal-miner father. Even so, he managed to win all-state honors as a running back at Shrinerton High School. He served in the Army Air Corps during World War II, then enrolled at Portland State College, and then to Oregon after his freshman year and teamed with future Hall of Fame quarterback Norm Van Brocklin to carry the Ducks in a 9-1 season in 1946 and a trip to the Cotton Bowl. He turned down pro offers after graduation to become an assistant at Oregon. In 1959 he moved to U.S.C., did one year residency as an assistant, then took over the head-coaching job and proceeded to make collegiate history.

W

We leave then and have to make chicken salad out of something less in Tampa Bay? McKay, typically, has no straight answer. His own distinctive brand of iron-curtain humor has become too familiar to the public of power football to ever be explained. But let's hope McKay didn't hurt. He's making $50,000 a year at U.S.C., but his present contract runs to around $2 million for five years—and McKay has agreed on another five, after which he will become the Rams' chief executive officer.

Oddly enough, the demands on a college mentor had something to do with his decision. As McKay once put it, "Our Bryant can charm people. He doesn't have to coach as much because he's a headliner. I could never do it. To make enough to live you have to be on the road all the time — recruiting, making speeches, speaking at banquets. We wound up over there in New York and spent two weeks in July to call our own.

The problem is this: home in Tampa Bay and U.S.C. left the two of us with only two weeks to put into the season. It was a real fine line to be on the road all the time — recruiting, making speeches, speaking at banquets. We wound up in New York and spent two weeks in July to call our own.

This is not to say the game is fixed; not at all. To be sure, home in Tampa Bay and U.S.C. left the two of us with only two weeks to put into the season. It was a real fine line to be on the road all the time — recruiting, making speeches, speaking at banquets. We wound up in New York and spent two weeks in July to call our own.

The Mexican Adoption Connection

By Lynne McTaggart

It is a day or two ago that the famous adoption scandal was in the headlines. The American adoption community was shocked by the allegations of wrongdoing and unethical practices that had come to light. The story was reported extensively by the media, and it sparked a nationwide debate about the ethics of adoption and the need for stricter regulations.

The scandal involved a group of American adoptive parents who had adopted children from Mexico through a network of brokers and agencies. The adoptive parents had paid large sums of money to the brokers, who promised to provide them with children. However, the brokers had not fulfilled their end of the bargain, and many of the adopted children had never even been to the United States.

The scandal raised questions about the legality of the adoptions and the ethics of the brokers. It also highlighted the need for better regulations and oversight in the adoption industry. The American Adoption Congress, the leading organization in the adoption field, announced that it would be conducting a thorough investigation into the scandal.

While the investigation was underway, the adoption community began to come together to address the issues that had been raised. There were discussions about the need for better education and training for adoption staff, as well as the need for stronger laws and regulations to protect the rights of adoptive parents and children.

The Mexican Adoption Connection was a cautionary tale, reminding the adoption community of the risks and challenges associated with international adoption. It was a wake-up call for those who were involved in the adoption industry, and it highlighted the importance of working together to ensure that children are placed in the best possible homes.

In the end, the scandal brought attention to the issues that had been ignored for too long. It was a moment of reckoning for the adoption community, and it set the stage for a new era of transparency, accountability, and responsibility. As the investigation continued, the adoption community worked to ensure that the rights of all adoptive parents and children were protected, and that the adoption process was fair and just for everyone involved.

Too Busy Earning a Living To Make Any Money?

You think you've got problems? As you read this, there's a family somewhere in the United States making money at the rate of $20,000 a week. Next time you see a statistic like that, remember that it means 3.4 million families of four are earning that much or more and you can think what it means for those individuals. It means that there's a new kind of inflation going on in this country: the inflation of the gap between the rich and the poor.

We need more than a few families making $20,000 a week. We need a nation in which the average family can earn enough to live on. We need a government that will do something about the problem of inflation, not just sit back and let it happen. We need your help to make it happen.

The Case of the Missing Wedding Ring

The symbol of marriage can also be a symbol of trouble between partners, according to psychiatrist Dr. Barry Berkley. A wedding ring, "forgotten" to be worn, is getting much on the ring finger to one partner. It can be a sign of something wrong in the relationship or the ring may be a sign of something more serious.

Dr. Berkley explained:

- "If the ring is missing, it can be a sign of trouble between partners. It can also be a sign of something more serious, such as depression or other emotional problems.""}

Fact Over Fancy

Legend has it that more babies are born in February than in any other month of the year. Two months ahead of the baby's due date, many of us wear colorful hats and pith helmets to keep snug.

How Sex Atitudes Are Changing

The attitudes of older and younger women are changing. The traditional image of a woman as a housewife, or even a working woman, is being replaced by a more independent and assertive role. Women are demanding more in their relationships and careers. They are increasingly taking on traditional male roles, such as earning a living and making decisions.

College Knowledge

College students are finding that life on campus is often different from what they expected. The stress of college can be overwhelming, but there are ways to cope. Here are some tips:

- Take it easy. It's not necessary to be perfect all the time.
- Make friends. Having a support system makes college easier.
- Get involved. Joining clubs or organizations can help you meet new people and make new friends.
- Stay healthy. Exercise regularly and eat a balanced diet.

How to avoid the pitfalls of college life is a question many students are asking. The key is to stay positive and enjoy the experience.
The Comic Genius of Zany Madeline Kahn

The variety of Madeline Kahn's movie roles is as dizzying as some of her performances. Here we ask the real Ms. Kahn to please stand up.

By Jane Hershberg

People think they know Madeline Kahn. She's the vivacious lady in the outrageous wigs. The one who replaced Barbra Streisand in Meet the Parents. The one who was a singing waitress in High Anxiety. The one who played the Tugboat Annie in The Morning Show. But this isn't what she's really like. She's much more than that.

But now, Madeline's back is full of it. And, this time around, there's no way she's not going to do something with it. She's not so sure things have changed that much. Even though she's been away from Hollywood for a while, she knows how to handle herself now.

Her recent releases include: Hello, Dolly! (with Barbra Streisand), The Morning Show, and She's So Bright. These films, she says, have signed a new contract with her.

This December, Madeline will be seen in Warner Brothers' The First Family. She plays a woman who, in the middle of a situation, suddenly realizes that her daughter is pregnant. It's a role she was born to play. She's always wanted to be a mother, and now she's going to do it on screen.

And, right now, she's going into production on Mel Brooks's next big film, History of the World. Part I. She's going to pitch her own ideas, she says. She's excited about working on a project that will make her name known. She's going to stand up to the world.

But now, Madeline's back is full of it. And, this time around, there's no way she's not going to do something with it. She's not so sure things have changed that much. Even though she's been away from Hollywood for a while, she knows how to handle herself now.

A Report Card on Sesame Street

By Jack Weinman

For $531 million, the Sesame Street Workshop has produced one of the most fascinating educational tools in history. The Pleasantville, NY, facility introduced 125 different shows and received 1,400 complaints from parents about such programs as the Sesame Street Live and the Sesame Street Video. However, the primary role of the Sesame Street Workshop is to provide educational content for young children.

Dr. Michael Fisher has been a child psychologist at the Sesame Street Workshop for 10 years. He notes that the show's educational content is designed for children aged 2 to 7 years. Fisher suggests that Sesame Street can be a valuable tool for parents and educators, but it should not be the sole source of learning for young children.

The show features a group of lovable characters, including Elmo, Cookie Monster, Big Bird, and Bert and Ernie. The characters are used to teach children about emotions, social skills, and literacy. Fisher believes that the show's educational messages are effective because they are presented in a fun and engaging way.

While Fisher acknowledges that Sesame Street is not a substitute for traditional education, he believes that it can be a valuable supplement. He suggests that parents should use the show as a tool to help their children learn and develop positive social skills.
