COAST GUARD ENDS SEARCH FOR BODIES

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Storm-damaged boats and helicopters were among the victims of the crash of a U.S. Coast Guard plane here yesterday, Coast Guard and police said. The Coast Guard plane had crashed off at 3:45 p.m. in 20 feet of water about 500 yards from Palm Beach Beach, Coast Guard Lt. Douglas Jenkins said.

"The plane has been adequately recovered. There are no survivors," Jenkins said.

The plane, a Grumman HU-26B, was on a 10-thousand-mile cruise to Newport, R.I., and was carrying 10 crewmen and two passengers, according to Coast Guard officials.

Jenkins said the plane went down after the crew saw smoke from the engine and tried to land. The plane hit the water at full speed and broke up into several pieces, he said.

The search for survivors was called off at 7:30 p.m. after the search was called off for the day, according to Jenkins.

"It's a sad day," Jenkins said.

"The plane experienced engine trouble on approach to Palm Beach Beach and the pilot elected to land. After checking the engine and confirming it was operating properly, the pilot elected to land and the plane went down in the water."

A 16-foot boat was found in the water by the Coast Guard cutters and two helicopters arrived at the scene by 10 p.m., according to Jenkins.

Hostage Families Skeptical Over Offer

The Bakery of Dushanbe Khaiti's proposal to free the American hostages is getting mixed reviews from their skeletal families at home. Some have accepted it, others have rejected it, but all are skeptical.

Lebanon Kennedy, wife of hostage Michael Kennedy and the spokesman for an organization of hostage family members, said Dushanbe Khaiti's offer was a "delay tactic.

Cable New Ad Medium

The new advertising medium is cable television, a rapidly growing network of cable TV stations and networks that can carry potential as a medium for national advertising. The cable medium is being explored by advertisers and agencies as a new way to reach consumers. The cable medium is said to offer a number of advantages over traditional broadcast media, including the ability to target specific audiences and the ability to deliver messages in a more personal way. The cable medium is also said to be more cost-effective than traditional broadcast media, making it an attractive option for advertisers.

Stations Profiled

The current market for cable television ads is quite large. According to Nielsen Media Research, cable TV ads generated $1.2 billion in 2018. Of this total, $800 million was spent on national ads, while the remaining $400 million was spent on local and syndicated ads. The most popular cable networks for advertising are CNN, HBO, and ESPN. CNN is the most watched cable network, with an average of 1.5 million viewers per day. HBO and ESPN are also popular, with an average of 1.2 million and 1.1 million viewers per day respectively.

Black Web Scheduled

Many companies are turning to the Black Web to reach African-American consumers. The Black Web is a group of Internet sites and services that cater to the African-American community. These sites offer a range of services, including online shopping, news, and entertainment. The Black Web is said to be more effective than traditional broadcast media in reaching African-American consumers.

Remember

"When my husband Vernon died of a heart attack in 1956, ambulance service in Oklahoma City was a real and got operation. In addition, there were not just ambulance drivers, but qualified emergency medical professionals. They would take me to the hospital and wait for the emergency room to start. My insurance would only cover a portion of the total cost. There is no charge for any of AmCare's services to its members, and if I use it and it will have peace of mind. I hope I never have to use AmCare, but if I do, having a membership gives me a feeling of security."
Candy On Horseback

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - While Hollywood's stars often rely on horses to get them to and from the studio lot, one new star, 12-year-old Candy, will earn her fame and fortune in the saddle. The horse, a black mustang, is the latest arrival at the stables of the Hollywood studio, where she will be trained to perform in the studio's next big production, "The Adventures of Buckaroo Banzai in the 21st Century." Candy will be the star of the movie, which is set to begin shooting next month.

Wilecox Rides Out Strike

SEATTLE (AP) - Larry Wilecox, the first to strike against the new labor contract, was back at work yesterday, as the strike that has paralyzed the city's steel industry entered its third day. Wilecox, who is a steel worker at the Pacific Steel and Wire Co., said he was glad to be back on the job, even if it meant working for less money.

Use Of Japanese Language May Hurt 'Shogun' Ratings

By Lee Shulman

"Shogun," probably the most expensive American-made television mini-series ever produced, will soon be heard and seen in Japan. And the network executives are worried that the Japanese may not like it. "Shogun" is a filmed version of the classic novel by Robert Kurosawa about 17th-century Japan. The series is being shown in America this fall and will be shown in Japan in the spring.

The network executives are concerned about the use of Japanese language in the series. They fear that the Japanese may not understand the subtleties of the language, especially when it comes to the complicated political and military situations of the time. The network executives are also concerned about the possibility of the Japanese taking a negative view of the series due to the use of the Japanese language.

Despite these concerns, the network executives are confident that "Shogun" will be a hit in Japan. They believe that the series will be a hit because of its high production values and its depiction of a fascinating period in Japanese history. The network executives are also hoping that the use of Japanese language will not be a major issue, as they believe that the Japanese will be able to appreciate the series regardless of the language.

Mrs. Oswald Backs Out

Children Under Stress: The Causes And Cures

By Jonathan E. Diamond

A great deal has been written lately about the adverse effects of stress, a word used to describe the body's response to situations which it perceives as threatening. Stress can be a problem for children as well as adults, and its effects can be felt in the form of physical, emotional, and behavioral problems.

Each day your child faces stressful situations — that you may not even recognize. It's up to you to spot the signs of stress and help your child resolve it.

The effects of that increased heart rate in a child can become manifest in adulthood. There is already some noteworthy evidence. Listing stress to high blood pressure and possibly heart disease.

Stress may also make children more susceptible to some kinds of disease, by inhibiting the body's immune responses. And it is not only susceptible to a variety of gastrointestinal ailments. As an increased stress load, stress has been known to stop children from growing. Called "growth retardation syndrome," this condition occurs when stress suppresses the growth hormones.

Stress can also make children more prone to illness. Stress raises the body's immunity levels and can lead to a variety of disorders, especially Crohn's disease. Sincerely, Crohn's disease has been recognized more than 500 children about stress. "Typically, we do not teach children how to prepare for stressful events or, when those events arise, how to cope with them. Very young children lack what is called "emotional intelligence," explains Yankees.

Children who have poor self-esteem may be at a disadvantage when coping with stress. They have strong self-esteem.

Children who have poor self-esteem may be at a disadvantage when coping with stress. They have strong self-esteem.

The problem is, children may not be able to verbalize their feelings when they are stressed. This is why it is important to recognize the signs of stress in children.

1. Frequent Crying: Children who are stressed may cry more frequently than usual.
2. Changes in Appetite: A child may stop eating or overeat as a response to stress.
3. Anxiety: Children may become overly anxious or fearful in situations that do not usually cause them distress.
4. Difficulty Sleeping: Stress can disrupt a child's sleep pattern, making it difficult for them to fall asleep or stay asleep.
5. Irritability: Children may become more irritable or difficult to manage when they are stressed.
6. Physical Symptoms: Stress can manifest in physical symptoms such as headaches, stomachaches, or digestive problems.

By being aware of these signs, parents can provide support and help their children cope with stress.

Our Dancing Goodwill Troupe

By Dorothy W. Marting

Though international diplomacy must generally be handled delicately, there's no need to debate about the approach of the Mayflower Square Tappes. By their dancing and singing goodwill will spread around the globe.

The Square Tappes are a happy group of dancers aged 3 to 77. From high school, college, and university students; from bluebirds and browncoats - the group sure can dance! They're performed in Romania, U.S.S.R., Poland, France, England, and the U.S.A. to spread goodwill to people all over the world.

The dancing is followed by a buffet dinner with a country buffet menu, which includes: spaghetti and meatballs, chicken and dumplings, and beef stew with vegetables.

The program concludes with a live auction of items donated by local businesses and individuals, with proceeds going to support the group's ongoing activities.

You are invited to join us for a night of fun, food, and dancing to benefit our Dancing Goodwill Troupe! Please mark your calendars for the next event, which will be held on [date].

Zubin Mehta's first season (1979-80) as music director of the New York Philharmonic was quickly marked by a series of concerts that generated critical acclaim. The acclaim continued in the following seasons, and in 1981, he was named the orchestra's music director. This continues today, and the orchestra has been widely praised for its performances under Mehta's leadership.

In his book "The Cleveland Orchestra: A History," the noted music critic and conductor, William Schuman, said of Mehta: "His predecessor, the great Leopold Stokowski, said of him: 'He is the greatest orchestra conductor I have ever heard.'"

Zubin Mehta was born on January 18, 1936, in Bombay, India, and began his musical career at a young age. He studied with renowned conductor Leopold Stokowski, who was known for his innovation and creativity. Mehta's first full-time job as a conductor was with the Cleveland Orchestra, where he served from 1970 to 1982. He has also conducted a number of other orchestras around the world, including the Vienna Philharmonic, the Berlin Philharmonic, and the New York Philharmonic.

Mehta has received numerous awards and honors for his contributions to the world of music, including the Japan Society's Gold Medal in 1986, the National Medal of Arts from President George H.W. Bush in 1991, and theyzt National Medal of Science from President Bill Clinton in 1999. He has also been a visiting professor at the Peabody Institute of the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Maryland, and a visiting professor at the University of California, Los Angeles, where he has taught conducting and theory.

Mehta has been married to the actress and dancer Mallika Sarabhai since 1971. They have two sons, Kunal and Karan. Mehta has been involved in various humanitarian causes, including the relief efforts following the 1995 Dharmsala earthquake in India, and the 1999 Kargil conflict in Kashmir.

Mehta continues to conduct and appear as a guest conductor with orchestras around the world. He has also written several books on music, including "Concerto for Orchestra: The Art of Conducting," which was published in 2003.

Only Myths

Popular wisdom holds that only children are somehow different from those people who grew up with siblings. They are often accused of being selfish, aggressive, lonely and cold. Yet, new studies of only children have been done recently. These studies expose the common misconceptions about only children. In fact, contrary to popular belief, only children are not more likely to be selfish or cold.

"Only children are often looked at as negative terms," says Dr. Jerry

Shine On Harvest Moon

Farmers have long called the big flash of moonlight over a farmer's house the "harvest moon." The moon gets its name because it rises so soon after the sun sets, providing farmers with extra hours of light by which they can get their crops in. Explains Frank Forester, a farmer in the area: "The moon's light is invaluable. Without it, we'd be in the dark for another night or two."

"The harvest moon is the period the moon rises after the sun has set. It is called the "harvest moon" because it provides extra light for farmers to work in."
