IRAQ THRUSTS INTO IRAN

IRAQI forces crossed the border into Iran on Wednesday, attacking a tiny oil terminal on Kharg Island and taking four hostages. The basis for these actions and their full implications are unclear.

The move, described as "a significant military operation," was aimed at disrupting Iran's oil exports. The attack occurred in the early hours of Wednesday morning, and no casualties were reported on either side.

Iran retaliated with air strikes against IRAQI targets, including oil facilities and military bases. The strikes caused significant damage and disruption to IRAQI infrastructure.

The conflict escalated further as both countries claimed victory and launched counterattacks. The situation remains tense, with both sides increasing their military readiness.

The strategic threat from both sides has implications for regional stability and international relations. The international community is closely monitoring the developments and assessing potential consequences.

The situation is expected to remain volatile, with ongoing military operations and diplomatic efforts aimed at de-escalation.

Amway Could Become State's Strongest Political Force

By Kyle Oltman

In Oklahoma, Amway is known for its products, but now it's making its mark in politics. The multi-level marketing company has become a powerful force in state politics, and its influence could grow even more.

The company's representatives in Oklahoma have been active in local elections, from school board to state legislature. They donate money to candidates and help with organizing events and campaign events.

Some political analysts believe Amway's influence could be even greater if the company were to formally enter the political arena. The company has not shown any interest in doing so, but its presence is already felt in Oklahoma politics.

Political Candidates May Face Tests From Religious Leaders

By Dorothy Collins

Religious leaders in Oklahoma are stepping up their involvement in politics, putting candidates to the test on a range of issues.

The Rev. George H. Martin of the Disciples of Christ, for example, has been active in recent campaigns, offering endorsements and speaking out on issues. He has called for candidates to take a more proactive stance on social justice issues.

Religious leaders say they're motivated by a desire to see candidates who stand up for what they believe in, even if it means taking a position that goes against the political mainstream.

The Man Behind 'Shogun' Success

By Bob Greene

The success of the movie 'Shogun' was due in large part to the efforts of a man who worked behind the scenes. His name is John Milius, and he was the producer of the film.

Milius was a rising star in the industry when he was given the opportunity to produce 'Shogun'. He worked tirelessly to make the film a success, and his efforts paid off.

Under his guidance, the film became a hit and helped launch the careers of many actors, including Richard Chamberlain, who played the lead role.

The success of 'Shogun' showed the power of behind-the-scenes work, and Milius went on to produce many other successful films.

Ronnie Promises The Good Times Will Continue

By David Boreham

RICHMOND, Va. — They call him the "Great White Hope" of the campaign — a man destined to bring the South to its knees on the road to victory. They say he's a man of destiny, the answer to the South's prayers for a savior, the voice of the people, the embodiment of their hopes and dreams.

They say he's the one who will make the South great again. They say he's the one who will bring back the good times.

But Ronnie Promises otherwise.

"The good times will continue," he says. "We have a plan to bring back the good times, and we will make sure that they never end."

Ronnie Promises isn't just another politician. He's a man of the people, a man of the South. He's a man who understands the struggles of the working class, the struggles of the poor, the struggles of the South.

He's a man who has spent his entire life fighting for the South. He's a man who has dedicated his life to bringing back the good times.

And he's a man who will not rest until he has succeeded.

Electronic Church Has TV Game Show

CHICAGO (AP) — The electronic church has its first show on television. The program, "The Church Game," will air on ABC from 8-9 p.m. on Sunday night.

The show features a church congregation playing a game of Trivial Pursuit. The game is divided into five categories: Bible, History, Science, Sports, and Music.

The show's creator, Rev. John Smith, says the idea for the game came to him during a Sunday service. He was thinking about how much better the church could be if it had a show like this.

"I thought, 'Why not create a show that brings the church to the people?'" Smith said. "And that's how 'The Church Game' was born."

The show's host, Rev. Jack Miller, says he is excited to be a part of the program. He says it will be a great opportunity to share the message of the church with a wider audience.

"I'm really looking forward to getting out there and talking about the church," Miller said. "I think this is a great opportunity to get the word out about what we're all about."

Political Ads Turn Negative

By Fred Green

The political ads in this year's presidential campaign are turning negative. They're not just attacking the opposition, they're attacking the candidates themselves.

The ads are designed to make the candidates look bad, to make them seem like they're not up to the job.

"The ads are getting worse," said one political analyst. "They're not just trying to make the other candidate look bad, they're trying to make their own candidate look bad too."

One candidate, John Doe, has been the target of several negative ads. The ads portray him as a liar, a cheat, and a thief.

"I don't know why they're doing this," said Doe. "I've done nothing wrong, and I don't know why they're attacking me like this."

Another candidate, Jane Smith, has also been the target of negative ads. The ads portray her as a extremist, a fanatic, and a hypocrite.

"I don't know what's going on," said Smith. "I'm just a normal person, and I don't know why they're trying to make me look bad like this."

Carson Loses Toilet Suit

By Bruce Brown

The mayor of a small town in the South has lost his toilet suit.

Mayor Mike Carson, who is running for re-election, said the suit was stolen from his campaign headquarters.

"I can't believe it," Carson said. "I've been running for election for years, and this is the first time anything like this has happened.

The suit was a gift from a supporter, and it was an important part of Carson's campaign.

"I'm going to try to get it back," Carson said. "I'll do whatever it takes to get it back."

The town's police chief said they are investigating the theft.

"We're taking this seriously," said the chief. "We want to get to the bottom of this and make sure that it doesn't happen again."

The mayor's campaign headquarters is located in a small building behind the town hall.

"I can't believe they would do this," said a supporter. "I'm really disappointed that this has happened.

Senior Nutt getting Last shot at OSU job

By Adrienne Bard

When the name Shugov Nutt was mentioned at the end of the 1980s, the name was associated with Osu's athletic programs. Nutt was a former running back who had served as an assistant coach at Oklahoma State University. He had a reputation for being a hard-nosed, no-nonsense coach who knew how to get the best out of his players. Nutt had a successful record at Oklahoma State, but when he left to become the head coach at Arkansas, he was thought to be leaving a program on the rise. However, Nutt's stint at Arkansas was short-lived. He was fired after just one season, and the program struggled under his leadership.

The story of Nutt's tenure at Arkansas is one of the most controversial in the history of college football. Nutt was a fiery and controversial coach who was known for his aggressive style. He was also known for his fiery personality, which often led to confrontations with his players and the media. Nutt's departure from Arkansas was one of the most controversial in college football history.

First TD a big moment For Poke frost Franck

STILLWATER—For Poke frost Franck, the moment was a defining moment in his career. Franck was a running back for Oklahoma State University, and he had been working hard to get his chance. The opportunity came on Saturday, when he scored his first career touchdown. Franck's touchdown was the highlight of the game, and it was a moment that he will never forget.

"I've been working hard for this moment," Franck said. "I've been waiting for this opportunity. It's been a long time coming, and I'm finally getting my chance."

Franck's touchdown was the result of a hard-fought game, and it was a moment that he will always remember. It was a moment that showed the world what he was made of, and it was a moment that he will always be proud of.
Right Knee Is Enemy No. 1 For Greg Pruitt

By Bob Horsman

Greg Pruitt and his right knee aren't getting along too well at the present time. It's not a new problem, but asking him to go out and make a trip through a field of would-be tacklers is almost a nightmare. As they say in football, the knee is hurting.

"It's a misunderstanding on the quarterback's part, and I'm not sure who's at fault," Pruitt said. "The knee is just hurting. I don't know what to do about it."

Pruitt is not the only player feeling the effects of the game, as Tom Landry and his Dallas Cowboys have a lot to do with the energy levels of their defensive line. The Cowboys have had to work hard to prepare for the upcoming game, and their players have shown it in their practices.

"It's not easy being here," said Pruitt. "I'm not sure how long I'll be able to play."

THE COLLEGES

The Pro Bowl was reduced to the Pro Five under the rule change adopted by the University of California. The game was played on Saturday, January 13, and the Pro Five included the following players: Tom Landry, Dallas Cowboys; Dan Reeves, Denver Broncos; and John Elway, Denver Broncos.

THE PROS

It's been a tough season for the Dallas Cowboys in their quest to improve on their record. Richard Todd has not had a lot of support from his teammates, but he is determined to make a comeback. The team has been struggling, and Todd is hoping to lead the way.

"I can't imagine what Richard Todd is going through," former Cowboys quarterback Don Meredith said. "He's had a tough season, and he's trying hard to improve."

Two other former Cowboys, Tom Landry and Don Meredith, were named to the Pro Five. Landry is the head coach of the Dallas Cowboys, and he has led the team to several Super Bowl victories. Meredith is a former quarterback who played for the Cowboys in the 1960s and 1970s.

Redwine can take inside track on Heisman

All of a sudden, Jerry Redwine is in the spotlight. And it looks as if his days as a quiet, unassuming fullback for a small college football program may be numbered.

It's not that Redwine hasn't been noticed before. He's been a solid player for Oklahoma State and Stanford, and he's always been a team player. But now, with the Heisman Trophy up for grabs, Redwine has become a true star.

OKLAHOMA ST. STANFORD - This was the matchup last year, and Redwine was the star. He carried the ball 24 times for 144 yards and two touchdowns.

Missouri M. San Diego ST. - In past years, Redwine has been overshadowed by other players. But this year, he's stepping up and taking control of the offense.

Iowa ST. - The Sooners have been waiting for a leader, and Redwine could be the one to fill that role.

Redwine has found his stride in 1980. He's averaging over 5.0 yards per carry and has scored 11 touchdowns so far this season.

Al Eschbach's college predictions

Colorado M. Indiana ST. - It's hard to get up early in the morning, but if you do, you'll be rewarded with a great breakfast.

Iowa ST. - The Hawkeyes have a tough schedule, but they're off to a good start. They'll be in the mix come the Big Ten.

Missouri M. San Diego ST. - These teams always provide a great game. Expect a close one this year.

Redwine's performance this season has been impressive, and he's a strong candidate for the Heisman Trophy. With his skills and the opportunity to shine, he could very well take home the award.

On the other hand, it's not just Redwine. Other players like Oklahoma ST.'scustomerId and Stanford's Jim Plunkett are also in the mix for the Heisman.

The final decision will be made in December, but Redwine has a strong chance to be named the nation's best player. He's been the key to Oklahoma State's success, and his performance has been nothing short of remarkable.

This is a pivotal year in college football, and Redwine is a big part of it. His performance will be closely watched, and he could very well take home the Heisman Trophy. It's been a long time coming for Redwine, and he's ready to take his place among the greats.

Worth Rooting For

The Chicago Bears have very little to cheer about this season with a 1-2 record and the world champions Pittsburgh Steelers coming up Sunday, but Penny Joer Port Looi did her best to keep spirits up in last week's 26-14 loss to Minnesota. She has a tough job ahead of her in Pittsburgh with Tampa Bay, Minnesota, Philadelphia and Detroit.

Titans Should Stop Class 2A Power Marlow

Midwest City and Putnam City scampered around Putnam City's walk-on quarterback and tallied a 20-7 victory in the Class 2A district game.

The Titans' 3-1 record matched with a 2-1 walking of the Panthers, who are 1-3.

John Martin's prep picks are 44 and 45 by Putnam.
