Iraq Captures Iraqi City

Baghdad, Iraq (UPI) — Iraqi armed forces claimed to have captured the strategic city of Al Buraq from the Kurds yesterday, snapping three days of fighting in the area. The victory came as a result of a major offensive launched by Iraqi forces to regain control of the region from Kurdish fighters.

irus Expulsion Rare Event

Washington, D.C. (UPI) — The House of Representatives passed a resolution yesterday expressing its opposition to the expulsion of Jews from Austria. The resolution, which was introduced by Representative James Oberstar (D-MN), was approved by a vote of 235 to 182. The resolution expressed concern over the actions of the Austrian government and called for the peaceful resolution of the issue.

NOMBAH (1956) - University of Oklahoma's Board of Control of Campus Student Council held its bi-weekly meeting recently. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the current activities of the Student Council and to consider matters related to campus student organizations. The board members discussed several topics, including the organization's budget, the current status of various student projects, and plans for future events. The meeting concluded with the adoption of several resolutions and the announcement of upcoming events. The board members expressed their support for the student organizations and encouraged all students to participate in campus activities.

Morgan (1956) - The College of Education continued to work on the development of the new education program. The department has been working with state and local education officials to ensure that the program meets the needs of the community. The college has also been working with local businesses to provide internships for students. The program is scheduled to begin in the fall semester, and it is expected to attract a large number of students. The college is looking forward to the program and is confident that it will be successful.
Miss Lillian To Visit Tulsa

“Miss Lillian” chapter of the Tulsa Council of Churches is scheduled to welcome Dr. Lillian G. Carr, national president of the council, for a two-day visit here next Wednesday and Thursday.

Dr. Carr, a 71-year-old black woman, a registered nurse for 52 years and a church leader for 40 years, was elected national president of the council in August, 1974. The council is a non-denominational, inter-racial, inter-faith organization of church leaders working for justice and equality.

Her visit to Tulsa will include a meeting of the council’s executive committee and a public meeting at the First Methodist Church. She will also meet with local leaders and participate in a special service at the First Baptist Church.

Carter, Reagan Rest; Anderson Stumps

In a tense campaign for the White House, President Jimmy Carter and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of England continued their separate visits to the United States on Monday, seeking support for their respective foreign policies.

Carter, 65, was to arrive Monday night in New York to address the United Nations General Assembly. He is scheduled to meet with leaders of the General Assembly and to participate in a series of diplomatic conferences.

Thatcher, 63, arrived in New York Sunday night after a stop in Chicago. She was expected to meet with President Carter on Tuesday to discuss economic and political issues.

Weather

Rain, Snow, Frost!

The Midwest City Chamber of Commerce today announced that the Weatherford Chamber of Commerce will be hosting a weather forecast conference for Chamber members on Wednesday, October 5. The conference will feature a presentation by prominent meteorologists from various regions of the country, who will discuss the latest developments in weather forecasting and provide insights into upcoming weather patterns.

The conference will be held at the Weatherford Convention Center, beginning at 9:00 a.m. Chamber members are encouraged to attend to stay informed about the latest weather trends and to network with other business leaders in the region.

Bartering For Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an unusual campaign for reelection to the city council, John Smith, the Democratic candidate, is offering to barter votes for his political opponents.

Smith, who is running for the 4th Ward seat, has offered to trade votes for a variety of items, including fruits and vegetables, tools, and even a car.

Smith said he is offering the bartering to improve relations with his opponents, who have been critical of his voting record.

Smith’s campaign manager, Jane Johnson, said the candidate is determined to win the election by any means necessary.

No More Stereos, PLEASE

By D.J. Alvarez

Our fair city has witnessed many changes in recent years. One of the most significant changes has been the decline of the stereo industry. In the past, radios were a common household item, but with the advent of digital music players and smartphones, the demand for stereos has diminished.

Many of the companies that once thrived in the stereo business have fallen into decline or have been forced to adjust their strategies. This has led to a decline in sales and revenue for many businesses. It has also resulted in a loss of jobs for those who worked in the industry.

This is a sad development, as the stereo industry played a significant role in our community. It was a source of employment for many people and a hub for music and culture. We must do all we can to support our local businesses and keep our community vibrant.

Fall's Look Smooth, Blended, Traditional

Cover Story

By Alice Lamont

Orbach's

It's Autumn at Orbach's, and we're ready for you with the classic ENGLISH WINDCHEATER. Choose 3 Fabrics: SUPERFINE COTTON POPLIN, BUTTERSOFT CORDUROY, GENUINE ULTRASUEDE.

For more than half a century, from the rainy, brumby getting of Ireland to the rocky coast of Maine, one jacket has been the preeminent-the classic English Windcheater. It continues to be the most practical, least fussing jacket any man can wear. The rugged windcheater and bloomer body give unlimited freedom of movement. The knitted cuffs and waistband close out the cold and damp with total comfort.

We have it in the original superine cotton poplin in navy or slate, regulars and longs, 75.00; or velvety soft all cotton gabardine coming in saddle fitting, regulars and longs, 100.00; and, new this year, genuine rabbit fur in black and longs, 235.00. The look is traditional; the store is Orbach's.

Clubs Schedule Fall Programs

By Roberta Quest

The fall season is here, and clubs are gearing up for a busy season of events. The fall calendar is packed with a variety of programs, including lectures, workshops, and social events.

One club that is particularly active this fall is the Art Club. The club is hosting a series of workshops led by local artists. The workshops focus on various techniques, such as painting and sculpture. The club is also hosting a social event featuring a live music performance by a local band.

Another active club this fall is the Book Club. The club is hosting a series of book discussions, featuring local authors and experts in the field. The club is also hosting a social event featuring a wine tasting.

The fall season is a great time for clubs to host events and engage with their members. The clubs are working hard to provide a variety of programs that appeal to a wide range of interests.

Old European Royalty Invaded By American Money

By Beverly Lebanon

Once upon a time, when kings and queens roamed the halls of Europe, the crowns and robes of royalty glimmered with jewels that were nothing short of breathtaking. The scepters and swords that adorned these figures were not just symbols of power, but works of art. However, the days of the European Royalty are fading, as American money starts to play a significant role in the lives of these aristocrats.

The trend of American influence in European royalty began with the marriage of Princess Diana to Prince Charles. The public was shocked to see how much the American way of life had changed the royal family. Diana's style, fashion, and even her cooking were all Americanized. The same trend has spread to other European royals, as they try to incorporate American culture into their lives.

Are Women Superior To Men?

By Dorothy Thompson

In today's society, women have made significant progress in breaking the gender barrier. However, there are still many who believe that women are inferior to men. This belief has been perpetuated by men throughout history, and it still exists in some parts of the world today.

The idea of women being superior to men is a concept that has been around for centuries. It is based on the idea that women are more nurturing, compassionate, and emotionally intelligent than men. However, this belief is not supported by scientific research. In fact, many studies have shown that men and women are equally intelligent and capable of achieve great things.

Toni Tennille Plunges Into Talk Show Currents

Hollywood (WTV) — Toni Tennille has plunged into the heated currents of a daily talk show. Her appearance on the show is a significant shift from her background as the lead singer in the successful music duo, The Captain & Tennille.

The Captain & Tennille, known for hits like "(I'm Not) No. 1" and "Love Will Keep Us Alive," have enjoyed a long and successful career in the music industry. However, Toni's move into talk shows represents a new chapter in her career, as she explores the world of television talk shows.

"I'm really excited about this opportunity," Toni said in a statement. "The chance to connect with audiences in a different way is something I've always wanted to do."

Toni's transition into talk shows marks a departure from her previous work, where she was largely associated with music performances. The move is seen as a strategic step to diversify her career and reach a broader audience.

"I think it's going to be great," she added. "I'm looking forward to sharing some of my experiences from the music industry and also to see what kind of stories people have to share with me."

The Captain & Tennille were known for their unique sound and their ability to create music that resonated with a wide range of people. Toni's new talk show is expected to continue in that vein, offering a mix of personal anecdotes, behind-the-scenes stories, and engaging discussions with guests.

"I think audiences will really enjoy getting to know us in a different context," she concluded. "I'm sure there will be some surprises, but I think it's going to be a lot of fun for everyone involved."

'Days' Changes Again

By Nancy L. Harnickest

HOLLYWOOD - "Days of Our Lives" has postponed the wedding of Rocky and Ana, but the newly married couple will still appear in the show. The wedding will take place during the week of August 28. The couple was originally booked for the wedding in August, but the decision was made to delay it to accommodate the schedule of the show. The couple will celebrate their marriage in a private ceremony, and will be featured in the show later in the month.

Cable Industry Fears Systematics Will Limit Shows

By Ann Ferris

In a move that will impact the cable industry, Fox television has announced that it will limit the number of shows produced by the network. The decision has been made in response to the increasing number of shows being produced by the network, which has led to a decrease in the number of shows that can be produced by other networks. The network has also announced that it will be reducing the number of shows that can be produced by its partners, in an effort to ensure that there is enough bandwidth for all shows.

Use Of CBP Funds Fought

Opponents of the 1986 aid package for El Salvador argue that the funds are being used improperly. The package includes $150 million in aid to the government of El Salvador, which is being used to support the contra rebels fighting against the government. The opponents argue that the money is being used to support the contra rebels, which is illegal. They also argue that the money is being used to support the government of El Salvador, which is not popular with the rebels. The opponents have filed a lawsuit to stop the use of the money.

Would you like to be still aging 10 years from now?

A.H., Redondo Beach, Calif.

No. I want to be retired. No more work; nothing to do except ride. The back of me — the right side — is all moved around without anyone bothering me. I love to write songs and sing there. I don't want to be anu-

more than 10 years, so I would not like to be re-understand how others can react in the same situations.

Are left-handed people increasing or decreasing? Are there more left-handed men than women? — J.L. Tennessee.

The U.S. Census Bureau has no statistics on this topic. However, researchers have noted that the left-handed population is about 8-10% of the total population.

There are more left-handed men than women. Among children, the percentage of lefties is also higher.

PRO AND CON

In the U.S. Presidential Election Is It Better to Vote for the Person?

You could vote for the party rather than the person — if you know the party platform. Some people are interested in the campaign and the political issues, but the voting is often based on the candidate's personality. Some people think it's better to vote for the party, while others think it's better to vote for the individual. It's a matter of personal preference. You have to decide what is most important to you.

The most interesting issue is whether the candidate is qualified to hold the position. You have to look at their experience, education, and personal qualities. You also have to consider the issues they care about and how they plan to address them. Ultimately, it's up to you to decide who you trust to make the right decisions for the country.

The 20-Year Overnight Success Of Martin Sheen

Once, Martin Sheen supported himself by being the owner of a station wagon in a commercial. Now his career is panning along in overdrive, but to his wife and four kids, he's the ultimate family man.

By Renita Dicter LeBlanc

When Ramon Estevez arrived in Hollywood 20 years ago, he was one of the few struggling young actors who was really working. He had a job as a cop on the TV show "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," and he and his wife, a social worker, had a two-bedroom house in Santa Monica. His career prospects were so far away that he rented a room in a house in Hollywood. Today, 20 years later, he is a major star, and the couple have raised three children, a boy and two girls.

The transition from struggling young actor to major star didn't happen overnight. It took a lot of hard work, determination, and a bit of luck. But the transition did happen.

Martin Sheen has been a successful actor for over 20 years. He has appeared in numerous films and television shows, and has won several awards for his work. His career began in the 1960s, and he has continued to work steadily ever since.

In 1967, Sheen appeared in the film "The Graduate," which made him a household name. He went on to star in other successful films, including "Apocalypse Now," "Comancheros," and "The Right Stuff." He has also appeared in numerous television shows, including "The West Wing," "West Coast Law," and "Commander in Chief." Sheen has received several awards for his work, including an Emmy Award for his work on "Commander in Chief." He has also been nominated for several Academy Awards.

In addition to his acting career, Sheen is also a successful businessman. He has founded several companies, including a restaurant chain and a clothing line.

Sheen is a family man, and he has been married to the same woman for over 30 years. He has four children, a son and three daughters. He is known for his family values, and he has been active in many charitable causes.

Sheen is a successful actor, a successful businessman, and a successful family man. He is a role model for many people, and he is a inspiration to us all.
The Shadow Government
Washington's Faceless Power Elite

Each year, an estimated $2 billion to $3 billion is paid by the Federal Government to consultants—for work that critics say should be done by the Government itself.

By Michael D'Antonio

Washington has a lot of modem, but it doesn't have a lot of name recognition. The city's reputation is more as a center of government and politics than as a place to do business. However, there is a growing number of people who are finding it increasingly difficult to get things done here. The problem is not just with the consultants, but also with the way the Government works.

The consultants are usually hired to do things that the Government itself can't do, or can't do as well. They are often used to help with research, planning, and other tasks. However, critics say that the consultants are often overpaid and that the Government is not getting its money's worth.

The situation is especially bad with the consultants who work for the Department of Energy. The Department has been using consultants to do a wide range of tasks, from research to planning. However, critics say that the consultants are often overpaid and that the Government is not getting its money's worth.

One recent example is the Department's use of consultants to help with the development of a new energy plan. The consultants were paid $9,000 for each day they worked, and the Government paid $25,000 in fees. Critics say that the consultants were overpaid and that the Government is not getting its money's worth.

The consultants are also often used to help with the oversight of Federal programs. However, critics say that the consultants are often overpaid and that the Government is not getting its money's worth.

Sound Advice on Common Ear Problems
By Paula Drnov

Considering that some 16 million Americans suffer from some degree of hearing loss and that most of them — about three quarters — aren’t being treated, it’s evident that many of us are just plain neglecting our ears. Here’s a rundown on some of the most common ear problems.

Wax. Wax in the ear protects the ear drum by trapping tiny particles that get into the ear canal. But some people’s glands produce excessive wax. It has nothing to do with washing, and it can be a nuisance — it can even cause hearing loss.

Tinnitus was described by putting or ringing. Let a doctor flush it out.

Swimmer’s Ear. The medical term for this usually mild condition is external otitis. It is an infection caused most often by swimming in crowded or chlorinated pools, or by falling into the ears thoroughly. Mild cases may disappear on their own, but severe cases may require antibiotics or — as it is now a doctor.

Perforated Eardrum. The ear drum is a membrane at the back of the ear canal that transmits sound waves into the middle ear. It is less clear to the ear canal and then sends sound waves to the inner ear. Perforated eardrum causes may require antibiotics or — as it is now seen by a doctor.

Ear Infections. Children are particularly susceptible to infections of the middle ear — known medically as otitis media. It is estimated that 50 percent of American children contract an infection before the age of 2. Infections may be chronic, acute and usually follow an infection of the nose or throat or occur as a complication of other diseases such as chickenpox, measles or flu. The principal symptom of acute otitis media is a severe earache sometimes accompanied by fever. It is usually treated with antibiotics.

Chronic otitis media can result in hearing loss. Treatment involves draining the ear and antibiotics.

Otosclerosis. This is a hereditary disease characterized by the growth of bone in the framework of the middle ear. Hearing is affected when the new bone limits the movement of the ossicles — one of the tiny bones in the middle ear that helps transmit sound. At this point, otosclerosis usually can be treated surgically. However, if it affects the inner ear, the nerve function may be impaired. At that point, little can be done.

Otosclerosis is more common in women and usually develops between the ages of 20 and 40. The first symptom is a slight hearing loss, and then tinnitus (ringing in the ear).

Tinnitus. A common complaint is sometimes usually described as a ringing in the ear, although the sound may resemble a whistle.

Photography has become an essential part of today's wedding scenes. The wedding package deal now includes the wedding picture album, the groom, the caterer; the photographer, the honeymoon trip. Perhaps one day we will even have instant photographs who can perform.

It is not hard to spot the photographer when you first arrive at a wedding. He or she is wrapped in masks is is usually fumbling behind the flower arrangements. Suddenly he will come leaping out of the brush, ambushing innocent civilians and filming them with their faces.

There are cases on record of photographers helping get caught up in the marriage ritual and even getting married by mistake.

As the bride comes down the aisle, she is often preceded by a photographer. A few moments later she will be caught up in the action. "Hold it! That's a great shot! Hold it you're getting married! Stop! Hold it! Hold it!" If she is too late she has been caught by the photographer. She has been caught by the photographer. She has been caught by the photographer. She has been caught by the photographer.

At the reception the photographer goes for the tables. "You people here, stand over there behind the other people; the men over there. You'll make him, Mac. Ready everybody! Shoot!" Even the guests. The pretty pictures. The mass executions. The courageous, fearless wedding photographer, a piece of crooked hot dog still protruding from one guest's lips.

The bride emerges from the photographers cloud. "Yes the bride, your new lady. She won't be around much longer, you know."

The photographer has managed to do it again. He has managed to do it again. He has managed to do it again. He has managed to do it again. He has managed to do it again. He has managed to do it again.

The Five Morgan Dollar Investment Collection

The FIVE MORGAN DOLLAR INVESTMENT COLLECTION

Singing Brass: 1878-1900. The original Morgan silver dollars were introduced by the U.S. Mint in 1878. Despite the relatively brief time period of their production, the Morgan silver dollar quickly became a valued numismatic item and a favorite of many collectors. The Mint of Silver Dollars were minted from 1878 to 1904, with the exception of 1893 and 1894. The design of the Morgan silver dollar was created by Charles E. Barber, a renowned American coin designer. The obverse side of the Morgan silver dollar features a prominent profile of Liberty, while the reverse side displays the eagle, a symbol of American patriotism and independence.

The Morgan silver dollars were minted at the Philadelphia Mint, located in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The first Morgan silver dollar was struck in 1878, with the last coin being minted in 1904. The coins were produced in various mints across the United States, including Denver, San Francisco, and Carson City. The Merrick Morgan Silver Dollar Collection contains five original Morgan silver dollars, each hand-selected and authenticated by numismatic experts. The coins are in pristine condition and are housed in high-quality display cases.

The Five Morgan Dollar Investment Collection is an excellent opportunity for both serious numismatists and investors. These coins are not only a valuable investment but also a collectible item that can appreciate in value over time. The Merrick Morgan Silver Dollar Collection is the ultimate way to own a piece of American history and add to your numismatic collection. Don't miss this opportunity to acquire a truly exceptional collection of Morgan silver dollars.
Don't Wait for Tomorrow — Prepare Your Will Now

By Kate Veily

If you’re like most Americans, you probably don’t have a will. And if you don’t, you should. "Though planning for one’s own death is certainly not a pleasant prospect, there are several pressing reasons why drawing up a will should become a high priority," says Andrea Hyland, an attorney in private practice in Medina, N.Y. "Without a will your property will have to be disposed of according to a state formula which may or may not suit your needs. And in many cases, the laws of intestacy can result in a significant loss of property to the state. It is possible, for example, that the state will gain possession of your car and any funds in your account. Accordin to the formula, a portion of the estate would be left to any surviving parent." If you have children, then preparing a will that stipulates how they are to be provided for is a prime parental responsibility. Finally, a will may also save both time and money in taxes and legal and administrative expenses for your survivors.

Finding an Attorney

Preparation of a will requires special knowledge, and for that reason, you should hire a lawyer rather than try to do it yourself. Personal recommendation is, of course, the best method for locating an attorney, or a local bar association will be able to provide referrals.

The cost is likely to run $50 to $100 and up. In general, the more money involved in the estate, the more complex the will, and therefore, the higher the legal fee is. It is perfectly appropriate to get specific price estimates from the attorney you plan to use.

What to Consider

To plan your first meeting with an attorney, locate all relevant materials. Ask for a recent divorce, separation or parental agreement. If you have a marital property agreement, get copies of bank accounts, bonds, brokerage accounts, and annuities. "In order to advise you properly, a lawyer should have a clear idea of your financial situation. That way, he or she can help you to develop a plan to best provide for your survivors’ needs while taking advantage of possible tax savings," explains Hyland.

You’ll probably want to talk with a general practitioner and also a tax preparer to discuss how your property will be disposed of. It may be as simple as leaving your entire estate to your spouse, or you may wish to make specific bequests to your children or other people you wish to named in your will. It is a wise idea to have an attorney review your will to make sure that it is in order. You also may want to name someone to manage money for children or other people who may benefit from your estate.

You’ll also want to consider whom to name as executor — the person who will manage your property immediately after death and serve as the authority over the disposition of your estate. Even if you have a complex estate, you may decide to appoint someone with business experience.

If you have minor children, you will need to appoint a guardian. You’ll want someone to be responsible for the children themselves as well as any property you leave them. You may even want to name two individuals — a guardian to look after the children and a trustee to manage the money. These two very different abilities, and even with a small estate, it may be in the best interests of your children to separate the two roles.

Where to Keep Your Will

Once you have a will, it will be useless if the original is lost or stolen. So consider carefully where you keep it. Some lawyers will store the original for you, banks with trust departments sometimes store wills as a free service to customers; your insurance company’s safe deposit box is another good possibility. Since your own records will be sealed at the time of death, it is generally a poor plan to keep your own will. In fact, for easy reference, photocopies of your will with a note giving the location of the original can be kept with more confidence in a safe deposit box.
Pete Gogolak Gets His Kicks a New Way

By Dennis Lyons

In 1956, a family of four fled the Soviet-Russian method and made its way to the mainland of New York, N.Y. That was the only time Pete Gogolak and revolution went in opposite directions.

In the early 1960's, Gogolak became the first soccer-style place-kicker in football history, initially with Cornell University and later with the A.F.L.'s Buffalo Bills. Then in 1966, after playing two seasons with Buffalo, Gogolak signed with the New York Giants, becoming the first place-kicker to remain with the club for two seasons.

And now, Gogolak, 38, is involved in the grass-root level of the game, with the American Redkaps, an adult amateur club in Orange County, N.Y.

Gogolak and his wife, Jeane, have two children, a son, Matt, 21, and a daughter, Lisa, 18. The family lives in Orange County, where Gogolak is a football coach at the Orange Crest High School.

"I've been a football coach for many years," Gogolak said. "But this is the first time I've been able to get out on the field and actually coach. It's been great for me, and it's been great for the kids."

"I've been able to give back to the game," Gogolak said. "I've been able to show the kids how to play the game, and I've been able to show them how to be a better person."
A collection of 25 finely crafted thimbles—each one different—each designed and produced by one of the world’s most famous porcelain houses exclusively for this collection.

To beautify your home today... and cherish as a unique possession tomorrow.

For the first time in the history of collecting...

Thimbles of the World’s Greatest Porcelain Houses

Available only from The Franklin Mint.
Advance subscriptions deadline: October 31, 1980.

Royal Copenhagen... Wedgwood... Limoges... Minton... Spode... Obarre... Royal Vienna... Haviland... Franciscan Royal Doulton... the 25 greatest porcelain houses of the world, each represented by an original artist’s thimble created by that house especially for this series.

For the first time ever, the greatest porcelain houses of the world are participating in the creation of a collection that is unprecedented in history. A collection so inspiring... and so unique—that it is certain to be admired today and highly prized in years to come.

The most renowned porcelain makers in every part of the world are represented in this collection. And assembling it has been a formidable challenge, requiring three years of planning by the Franklin Mint. During that time, representatives of the most famous leading porcelain houses, each of them part of this historic international issue... have worked closely with the Mint to create a special thimble for each house.

An original thimble from each porcelain maker.

Each of the participating porcelain houses has created a special thimble exclusively for this collection. A thimble of original design, by its maker’s artists, portraying in an imaginative way the theme or style of that particular house. In addition to the intriguing design, each thimble will bear the name and identifying mark of the house that created it. Independently the thimbles will be fascinating. But each one is entirely different and many vary in size and shape as well. And each one tells another story.

The Royal Copenhagen thimble is elegantly simple, the royal crown of Denmark—in pure 22k gold—is engraved above the word of Royal Copenhagen. And along the rim is the name “Royal Copenhagen” in delicate script. The color is unusual: pale blue at the top gradually shading to white royal blue at the bottom.

The Haviland thimble is in placed Limoges porcelain, decorated with pink flowers and green leaves—all in soft focus—evoking a sense of elegance for which the French are well-known.

The Lladro of Spain thimble bears a charming design of three young girls, each in a different floral setting.

The design of the Gisbert thimble features a colorful variety of fruit—strawberries, cherries and blueberries. And the thimble is enhanced by a scalloped border of deep blue.

The Royal Tara thimble evokes the pure, clean feeling of a sunny field of Irish shamrocks. And inside, the emblem of Royal Tara— the famous Tara knot in Galway.

The Adams thimble depicts a peaceful English countryside scene, and this lovely design of trees and meadows surrounds the thimble.

And the Royal Doulton thimble portrays gay roses and blueberries, with a graceful footbowl at the top and a rim of 23k gold.

The 25 thimbles that make up the collection have each variety that when you show them to friends, they may think you acquired them on a trip around the world! Yet the completeness will bring a most humbling realization of the long traditions of owning fine collectible thimbles.

A distinctive acquisition that will be cherished by your family in years to come.

A beautiful way to display your thimbles. Because this collection is so unusual, subscribers will want to display it prominently in their homes and share it with friends and relatives. So that you may do so in the most attractive way possible, a beautiful hardwood shelf to hold all 25 thimbles will be provided. Part of the fun will be looking forward each month in receiving another unique thimble from a famed porcelain maker... and adding it to your growing collection.

You will also receive a specially-matched folder along with each thimble, describing its design and giving you facts and highlights about the porcelain house that created it.

Available for a limited time only.

These unique collector’s thimbles are available only for a limited time and only from The Franklin Mint. They will not be sold in any retail stores. October 31 is the advance deadline for reserving a subscription to The Mint’s Selection of the World’s Greatest Porcelain Houses.

The Mint’s collection will be permanently closed.

The thimbles will be sent at the rate of one per month, and the price for each thimble is just $14.90. Even though these works must be purchased by us in different foreign currencies over the past two years, The Franklin Mint will pass along this favorable price to every subscriber for each thimble in the collection. In view of present inflation, this is very significant promise.

Since it will take time for each porcelain house to craft a thimble for subscribers, it is necessary that your application be mailed to The Franklin Mint, Franklin Center, Pennsylvania, by October 31st.

Make an Animal Menagerie

Create these four followers with yarn and cardboard.

Knitting and car, puppies, and bunnies, a fox, a bear and even a cute gray mouse. They are all easy to make, and, once made, you may find yourself giving one to create a menagerie.

With small pieces of cardboard, a pair of scissors and less than two dollars of yarn you can make a little fox. A small scrap of cardboard makes the tail, scraps of yarn are the ears, and a piece of yarn forms the eyes. Then you can make several more. A little gray mouse takes almost no time at all.

To make the fox follow this:

1. Cut a strip of cardboard 3 inches long by 2 inches wide. This will be the fox's body.
2. Glue two pieces of yarn about 2 inches long to the ends of the strip to make the ears.
3. Cut two pieces of yarn about 1 inch long to make the eyes. Glue these to the strip, leaving about half an inch of yarn on each side.
4. Glue a piece of yarn about 1 inch long to the top of the strip for the tail.

To make the little gray mouse follow this:

1. Cut a strip of cardboard 2 inches long by 1 inch wide. This will be the mouse's body.
2. Glue two pieces of yarn about 1 inch long to the ends of the strip for the ears.
3. Cut two pieces of yarn about 1/2 inch long to make the eyes. Glue these to the strip, leaving about half an inch of yarn on each side.
4. Glue a piece of yarn about 1 inch long to the bottom of the strip for the tail.

HOW TO FLATTEN YOUR STOMACH

By the editors of Consumer Guide

Flatten Your Stomach for Men and Women

Flat, firm, youthful stomach. You want one — everyone does. And now you can have one, thanks to a new book, FLATTEN YOUR STOMACH, by the editors of Consumer Guide.

This book will show you how to help flatten your stomach in four easy steps — steps that can help you toward a more self-confident, attractive and comfortable Consumer Guide has worked with experts in the fields of exercise and fitness to develop a stomach-flattening program that will work, regardless of your body type or physical condition, age or sex.

There's nothing magical about a flabby, protruding stomach. It's not just unattractive, but it can be a factor in such medical problems as lower back pain, varicose veins, hernia, mental depression, risks during pregnancy, and complications during surgery.

FLATTEN YOUR STOMACH is more than just a book of exercises. You'll discover the reasons people develop flabby stomachs: how your "natural" grille — the network of muscles that control your abdomens, waistline and midsection. And how proper exercise helps firm up all of these areas; and much about the many health benefits that a taut stomach can bring you.

The exercise system of FLATTEN YOUR STOMACH is fully illustrated, so that you can see what to do in every step of the way. (The book is spiral bound to make it easy to use.) And the program includes a workout schedule for beginners, a list of things to watch out for, and tips to help you keep on track.

"OH, SILLY ME, YOU WANTED MY SOCIAL SECURITY NUM- BER AND I PUT DOWN MY DINNER'S CLUB NUMBER!"

"TELL ME, BERNICE! IN YOUR BRIDGE CLUB IS IT CONSIDERED BAD MANNERS TO KEEP A SECRET?"

WHAT'S SAM SO MAD ABOUT? I DIDN'T MEAN TO SMASH UP THE CAR! IT JUST HAPPENED!

GOLLY, IT'LL BE A WEEK BEFORE THE CAR IS FIXED!

HOW DID I GET ON THE SIDEWALK? WHERE'S THAT PHONE BOOTH COME FROM?

BY JERRY DUMAS AND MORT WALKER

OOOPS! GOING A LITTLE FAST... WHERE ARE THE BRAKES?

SAM, I'M NOT BIKE-ORIENTED... ANYONE USING THE ROLLER SKATES?
